"The He Man" Starts in Today's American

AN African night; a moonlit beach; a big hotel; an orchestra playing the latest one-step; a girl, heartsick with the thought of what tomorrow holds for her, excusing herself from a waiting partner and fleeing to the water's edge for a moment alone. A tall stranger, hooded and goggled; an aeroplane ready for flight; a bronze native in breech-clout standing by. "Take me with you," says the girl. The stranger looks her over appraisingly and without a word helps her into the machine.

Whir—whiz—whir, high into the air and straight for the heart of Africa. She expects to be brought back to convention, civilization, society and her nodding chaperon. He is on his way home to the jungle, and has no thought of return.

A circle of high peaked huts; black women pounding millet; pickaninnies at play; a group of bronze men under an acacia tree, calm, stoic!

In the middle of this kraal they make their landing—the man and the girl, neither knowing the other's name—and here for nine unforgettable weeks they live.

MRS. HAYES' NOTE PAID BY SCHWAB

Steel King Made Good $10,000 to Boston Contracting Firm

Part of the huge sums said to have been gotten by Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes through forged signatures of Charles M. Schwab, millionaire steel man, has been traced to Boston.

Joseph F. White, contractor of Cambridge, collected $10,000 on a note of Mrs. Hayes given to him.

The note was apparently indorsed by Mr. Schwab.

Mr. Schwab paid the $10,000, despite an allegation that the signature was forged.

He has admitted that for twenty-

Held 11 Days In Irons; Loses Legs

New York, May 18.—A story that he was placed in irons for eleven days, ultimately causing the amputation of both his legs because he resented the captain's alleged disregard of union seamen's rules, was told to his attorney today by Amandee J. Jalbert, known as "French."

Amandee, a patient in the Chelsea Marine Hospital, Boston, came here to testify against the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company in his suit for $150,000 damages. That

BOMB U. S. CONSULATE IN MEXICO

One Side of Building Wrecked; Believed to Be Work of Fanatic

Mexico City, May 18 (I. N. S.).—The United States Consulate was partly wrecked by a bomb today. No one was injured. The attack is regarded as the work of some individual evidently a fanatic.

John Barton Payne and Charles Beecher Warren, United States commissioners attending the Recognition Conference with two Mexican commissioners were notified of the explosion.

Warren said he felt sure some disgruntled individual was responsible and that no organized plot existed. It is possible the bomb makers may have attempted to impede the work of the commissioners, but officials stated the conference would continue as though nothing had happened.

One whole side of the consulate building was blown out. The explosion took place about 2:15 a. m. Investigation showed that the bomb evidently had been crudely constructed of black powder and was set off with a lighted fuse.

The State Department at Washington today telegraphed the American consul here to rush all possible details of the explosion. In the absence of official advices Washington officials declined to comment on what possible effect the bombing may have on the Mexican-American negotiations.

Union Labor and UNION MADE ELCHO Cigars

"How often have you been told that union labor fails to support its own, that it refuses to stand as a unit, that one craft cares nothing for another?

"Every admirer of organized labor must feel encouraged because labor has awakened to the fact that its strength rests in being really united.

"We are convinced that union labor now knows the need of protecting itself.

"For many weeks the manufacturers of the Elcho cigar have advertised in the Boston newspapers that their product is union-made; and the manufacturers of the Elcho are the only cigar-makers courageous enough, confident enough, to make this statement. Other manufacturers of union-made cigars fail to advertise the fact, believing, no doubt, that while union labor may be desirable in their factories, union labor's co-operation is negligible so far as sales go.

"The Elcho cigar manufacturers tell us that their sales have trebled since they began their advertising campaign.

"That means that union labor stands by its friends and it means, too, that union labor is waking up."

BOSTON BROKERS' PROBE IS ON; O'BRIEN CONFERS WITH N. Y. OFFICIALS

New York, May 18.—An investigation of bucketing and irregular dealings among Boston brokers is under way, it was reported today after District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien of that city conferred with District Attorney Joab Banton and Police Commissioner Enright of New York.

Mr. O'Brien declined to discuss details of his investigation on the ground that publicity would hamper the government's activities. He expects to return to Boston today.

WORCESTER COUNTY TO LOSE $500,000 BY LACK OF LABOR

Worcester, May 18.—"Worcester county farmers will lose $500,000 this year because they cannot get help," declares George F. E. Story, county agent and manager of Worcester County Extension Service.

"Strong, able-bodied men," he declared, "are showing a keen unwillingness to work on the farm. The current wage of $40 to $50 a month with room and board and general keep is no attraction. Farm labor conditions are worse now than they were during the war. The result will be curtailment of crops."

STUDENTS AT B. U. JOIN KU KLUX

Two Score Initiated by Four Kleagles at Secret Meeting

Boston University has been invaded by the Ku Klux Klan.

Minus their white hoods but shouting their "battle cry of freedom," four prominent Kleagles organized a "Boston University Kollege Klavern."

Two-score students of the university were "naturalized" at a special initiation which followed an organization meeting in Berkeley Hall, South End.

SECRET MEETING.

The meeting, which was held without knowledge of Boston University authorities, was secret. Students who attended were called to the hall by special invitation.

Telfair Minton, former secretary of the Loyal Coalition; Kleagle Lannin, a traveling organizer of the Klan, who has been in Maine; Kleagle Barrett of Massachusetts, and another kleagle, were those who addressed the meeting and did the organizing work.

Unbeknown to officials in charge

CHILDREN TRAMPLED TO DEATO

300 Persons Trapped in Building When Lamp Explodes at Graduation Exercises

Columbia, S. C., May 18.—Seventy persons, many of them school children, lost their lives in a fire which swept the Cleveland schoolhouse at Camden.

They were burned, suffocated and trampled to death in a mad scramble for the one exit that led from the top floor of the building.

A score of others are so badly burned they may die. Many who were successful in their dash for the stairway are suffering from serious injuries.

Gathered on the upper floor of the two story school building, three hundred children and their parents were enjoying an entertainment, marking the close of the school year.

On the stage twenty little girls and boys were going through their exercises when a kerosine lamp exploded, igniting a curtain. Instantly the hall was a mass of flames.

A living wedge quickly jammed the hallway in which men, women and children struggled for their lives. The flames spread so swiftly of the meeting, a Boston American reporter was present and observed the proceedings.

Before they were asked to join the organization, Dr. Lannin, who said he was a high official in the organization, explained to the students the aims of the body.

In his address, Dr. Lannin flayed the foes of the Klan and the friends who were in hearty accord with the aims of the body but were held back by fear from supporting it.

BAY STATE COLD.

"Maine has responded warmly to the appeal of the Ku Klux Klan," Dr. Lannin said. "Thousands and thousands have attended meetings in Portland and Bangor, and have pledged their support.

"Massachusetts, however, has been cold to our appeals. We have been hindered here on every hand. And why? Not because we have no sympathizers in this State. Merely because the real native born American citizens of Protestant faith have been too cowardly to make a stand for their ideals."

Telfair Minton, secretary of the Loyal Coalition, and an avowed prominent member of the Klan, was present, but did not speak. He took part in the initiatory exercises, however.

Dr. Lannin flayed the Roman Catholic element in this country, accusing it of having maliciously pinned the blame for the recent Louisiana murders upon the Klan.

"A candidate for membership in the 'Invisible Empire,'" Dr. Lannin continued, "must be a white, native-born American citizen of Protestant faith.

"He cannot be a Catholic. Not because we have anything against the Catholics as individuals. Merely because of the undermining power of the priesthood in this country that is threatening to gain control of the land.

"He cannot be a Jew, because of the Jewish menace in this country—the tendency of the Jews to dominate the great interests of the country.

"He cannot be a negro because we do not believe in negroes mixing with the white blood. History has shown us that the negro race is inferior to the white race. In fact, it is so far removed from the white race, that the Lord put wool on his head to distinguish him from us."

Dr. Lannin expressed his belief that the Klan would in time gain the supremacy over the foreign element which, he said, has been treading over the Anglo Saxon race.

KLAN AT HARVARD.

Grand Cyclops Harrell of the Massachusetts Kleagle addressed the students, outlining the hopes of the Klan to establish Klans in all of the prominent colleges in the country.

"We have a Klan at Harvard, one at Yale, and others are being started in many other colleges.

"There is not a single Klan in the city of Boston, a city which under the present constitution of the organization could have seven distinct Klans. There are, however, several Klans in the outlying districts.

"We have been hampered in our attempts to invade Boston, but we will get in eventually, in spite of the fact that your Mayor has made the ridiculous statement that if the Klan attempted to parade in the streets of the city, there were plenty of loose bricks around the streets to be thrown. Is such a man worthy of being Mayor of a city of 700,000 people?

"The Mayor of Soringfield said that the Klan would enter his town over his dead body. The Klan has entered his city, and he is still alive."

Cyclops Farrell outlined the manner in which prospective members enter the organization and members are advanced after they have joined.

FOUR DEGREES.

"Citizens" of the order are advanced according to meritorious service. There are four degrees to be undergone before a member can become a full knight of the Ku Klux Klan. At present there is not a man in the order who has been given the fourth degree. Even Imperial Wizard William J. Simmons and other organizers of the order are merely third degree men.

The utmost secrecy was observed in holding the meeting. Janitors and elevator men in the hall were told that the body which was in session were "Orangemen." Others were told that a whist was being held in the hall.

Students who were approached, after their lineage had been traced, and invited to attend the meeting, were handed a printed card.

Inscribed at the top of the card were the words: "Non Silba Sed Anthar."

The remainder of the card read as follows:

"Your friends state that you are a native born American citizen, having the best interest of your community, city, State and nation at heart, owing no allegiance to any foreign government, political party, sect, creed or ruler, and are engaged in a legitimate occupation and believe in these principles:

"The tenets of the Christian religion.

"Protection of our womanhood

"Just laws and liberty.

PURE AMERICANISM.

"Closer relationship of pure Americanism.

"The upholding of the constitution of these United States.

"The sovereignty of our State rights.

"The separation of church and State.

"Freedom of speech and press.

"A closer relationship between capital and American labor.

"To prevent causes of mob violence and lynching.

"To prevent unwarranted strikes by foreign agitators.

"The prevention of fires and destruction of property by lawless elements.

"Limitation of foreign immigration.

"Much needed local reforms.

"Real men whose oaths are inviolate are needed.

"Upon the beliefs and recommendations of your friends you are given an opportunity to become a member of the most powerful secret, non-political organization in existence. One that has 'most sublime' lineage in history. One that was 'here yesterday'—'here today'—'here forever.'

Joy Ride With Girls May Cost Him More Than the $100 Fine

If Edward Miskell could have looked into the future, he would never have taken Dorothy Lee and Genevieve Peers auto riding with his friend, Bernard A. Egan, of White avenue, Brookline. Here is what happened:

Edward and Bernard got drunk.

They were arrested.

Edward was fined $100 for driving while under the influence of liquor.

Edward's wife obtained a copy of his court record "for use in pending court action."

GRAVES OF 50 WAR HEROES SLIGHTED

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Memorial Day is fast approaching. That day, when hundreds of thousands of former service men will turn out and tramp through the streets in practically every city in the land in honor of those sons of America who took up arms at their country's call and have now passed on.

But over in the Fernwood section of the Woodlawn Cemetery at Everett there will be no flags flying over the graves of fifty men who gave their all in the recent World War. That is, there will be no flags unless something is done to make it possible to find and identify the graves of these heroes.

GRAVES SUNKEN.

Today some of them are sunk as much as two feet below the level of the ground. The others are grown over with grass and weeds nearly a foot high. And the markers placed —or supposed to be placed—at the head of each grave, are lying about in piles along by the fence. The graves have been neglected.

This condition was discovered when K. C. McDonald, graves registration officer of the State Department, American Legion, and A. J. Von Burg, treasurer of the Back Bay Post, American Legion, went to the cemetery to arrange for decorating the graves for Memorial Day.

"It was the shock of my life," said Mr. McDonald. "When I found these graves in such a state of neglect my blood boiled. I tried to find out who was responsible, but could not. I walked through the neglected section of the cemetery and looked in vain for the markers that would tell me who was buried there. Then I found the markers lying in the grass and weeds by the fence.

SHOCKED BY SPECTACLE.

"That was too much. I shall not stop until I have this condition remedied."

Von Burg clenched his hands as he gazed at the sunken graves and those covered by weeds and grass and unmarked. "So this is the way the boys are paid for answering their country's call," he said. "Fine payment for giving your life for your country. We shall go to the bottom of this and see who is to blame. It must be fixed up before Memorial Day. It is shameful!"

Desecrated!

LEGION OFFICIAL FINDS HEROES' GRAVE MARKERS TORN UP

K. C. McDonald, graves registration officer of the State Department, American Legion, points out the shocking neglect of the graves of fifty World War veterans in the Fernwood section of Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett. Photo shows the markers with the names erased by the weather torn up from the graves of the men who died from wounds and disease in government hospitals in the Bay State and piled in a heap by the fence. Some of the graves are sunk two feet below the ground, others are overgrown with grass and weeds. None bear identification—and Memorial Day is only two weeks away.

BANKER SUED BY LYNN GIRL

from Scott figured in the case.

The plaintiff, who is only twenty-one years of age, testified she was introduced to Scott in Boston on Labor Day, 1921, by a girl friend. She said Scott soon proposed marriage and she accepted, not knowing he was married. In his letters Scott referred to an allegedly fictitious divorce.

She testified she understood that Scott had gotten a divorce from his wife.

Twd weeks ago, she alleged, Scott wrote her from Toronto as follows:

"Dear Dot:

"I find that after keeping company for two years with you that I do not love you and that we had better call our coming marriage off. You are a good girl, but in my mind I am not prepared to marry."

The letter was signed "Russ."

Miss Newburg is twenty-one years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Newburg of No. 368 Summer street, Lynn. About six months ago she secured employment as a stenographer for the General Electric Company, West Lynn. Her associates tendered her a floral shower on her announcement of her engagement.

Miss Grace Newburg, sister of Dorothy, claims that Scott was infatuated with her sister and sent her two and three love letters a week.

Scott, who is a power in the financial circles of Toronto, served in the Canadian army during the war. He is twenty-six years old, and lives with his parents.

Letters introduced at the trial read as follows:

INVITED TO TORONTO.

"Sweetheart: I find I am unable to to go to Montreal for about four weeks. I had wanted to transact some business there, and I find now it will be impossible for me to put this through before the latter part of the month. oHwever, dear, I want you to spend the week with me i nToronto. Leave Boston Thursday afternoon about 3 and arrive Toronto 9 a. m. Will meet you at the station. Now, dear arrauge to get your ticket and leave right away. Wire me. Much love, Russell."

Miss Newburg evidently did not accept the invitation. This brought a hurried and lengthy letter from Scott, part of which follows:

WANTED FULL TRUST.

"If you loved me in the way I wish to be loved, you would trust me absolutely and would be really anxious and willing to prove to me beyond any shadow of doubt that your love was sincere and unselfish. It is very hard, dear, for me to put my thoughts on paper, but I have them in my heart. I love you now, but could be made to love you even more—and when I care for one deeply, I think I would try to make that one very happy. I do ask your sincere and unselfish love and your absolute trust and belief 50-50. Can you give me what I ask for? Write soon . . . Russell, x x x x."

TELLS OF DIVORCE.

The next, dated April 15, 1921, started:

"My dear little sweetheart: Haven't time to write you a long letter now, but expect to see you Saturday week. Florence was here last week, came up to my office, and caused quite a scene. She had bribed one of the office boys to let her in the office one night after everyone had gone and went through the desk and letter file looking for evidence. She found nothing to my knowledge, for I always destroy all letters after reading them.

"The reason for this increased activity on her part is the fact that the Supreme Court of Michigan has notified her that an absolute divorce will be granted against her May 16th at the latest. This means that she can never have anything to do with the children.

PROMISED CLOTHES.

"Rather a smelly mess, isn't it? She returned to Rochester last week. I don't expect to ever see her again. If you love me you will be here Saturday a. m. Be sure and bring your travelling bag. I will make sure my little sweetheart has some real clothes before she leaves. Much love. Russell. x x x x x"

A Welcome Loss
Mr. Mellon a Big Factor
A Baby Bonus
Scab Labor Is Costly

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

THE GOVERNMENT is going to lose money, a large sum, and everybody will be glad.

Thirty-seven million cartridges are offered for sale by the United States Ordnance Department as scrap metal. The government loss will be heavy, 90 per cent. or more of the original cost undoubtedly, and so much the better.

Had not the war ended when it did these cartridges would have gone into human bodies instead of going to the scrap pile. That kind of "loss" is a big profit.

AT St. AUGUSTINE, before he was inaugurated, President Harding told this writer that he intended to make Mr. Mellon Secretary of the Treasury. It has proved a first class selection. Mr. Mellon, who understands money, has handled United States finance well.

NOW, ALTHOUGH President Harding didn't think of it at the time, Mr. Mellon represents President Harding's best chance of re-election next year.

Everything depends on a continuation of prosperity and high wages. Prosperity and high wages depend largely on Mr. Mellon. He can make money tight or loose. If he manages, without dangerous inflation, to keep money loose and plentiful, building and other work will go on. Wages will stay up or go up higher.

And in November, 1924, President Harding will be able to say to working people, "My opponent is telling you that he is your friend. All that I can tell you is that, while I have been President, you have been making more money than you ever made in your lives. If you want to change that, vote for the other man."

The full dinner pail is out. The full pocketbook is what counts now.

IN PAPUA, north of Australia, they fight "birth control" as follows: When an island lady has four children her husband is free of taxation—very comfortable for him, for the four have not given him much trouble.

The lady receives a bonus of five shillings, a great deal of money down there, and an extra allowance for every additional child.

ONCE IT was a disgrace to have a big family in Papua. Now it is highly honorable. The earth needs population. Bonuses for children would be better than birth control, if mothers could be made really comfortable and children well cared for.

But it is hard to answer birth control advocates who say that thirteen children, of whom seven die in a family able to support only three, is not ideal.

THE RAILROADS complain of labor unions, but dealing with scabs and wholesale strikebreakers is not all profitable or pleasant.

The New York Central Railroad accuses Mr. Ascher, who supplied and boarded strikebreakers recently, with overcharging from 500 to 900 per cent., padding his bills and swindling the company.

The ideal system would include well organized, prosperous employers; well organized, well paid employes. All differences submitted to fair arbitration. But in industry, as among nations, men would rather fight than arbitrate, although it costs more.

SECRETARY HUGHES, "deploring world suspicion," tells social workers the nationals should have mutual confidence.

So they should; it would be charming. But look at Turkey and Greece, Poland and Russia, France and the Ruhr, and at France and England especially.

THEY SUSPECT, fear and despise each other. And platitudes, however beautiful, will not change that situation.

And American office-holders, especially the big ones, should remember that they represent the United States, not their own sentimental yearnings, or their burning desire to be patted on the back by English statesmen.

DIVORCE HELD UP BY LEGAL TANGLE

A legal complication arose after Mrs. Leitke had proved her charge of cruelty and abuse in divorce court, because it had occurred in New York, Judge Hall was compelled to reserve decision.

MRS. GERTRUDE NATALIE LEITKE

Mrs. Leitke satisfied Chief Justice Hall that she had suffered cruelty and abuse from her husband, Rudolph, but a decree of divorce was withheld from her until legal complications are threshed out by the justice and her counsel, Percy A. Guthrie. The Leitkes were married in Burlington, Mass., but the abuse was inflicted in New York, after which they returned here to live. Her husband recently threatened to sue Dr. George A. Haines of Everett for alienation of affections. She was a nurse for the doctor.

BAKER FAMILY MAY FORGET DIVORCE

Fiachburg, May 18.—The breach in the marital happiness of Attorney Emerson W. Baker and his comely wife, Charleen, appears to have been healed.

They are together once more after having been separated since January and there is every indication that the divorce action filed by the prosecutor will be withdrawn.

A wealthy Lowell contractor is reported the cause of the break. Baker accused his wife of improper conduct with this man and it was upon his ground that he based his petition for divorce. Mrs. Baker, it was said, planned a counter suit. neither cared to make any detailed statement today.

WIVES NO. 1 AND NO. 2 MAY PICK NO. 3 FOR HIM

Derby, Ct., May 17.—"If men and women gave one another a square deal when they decide to part, there isn't any special reason why they shouldn't go on living in the same house together."

This broad philosophy is being practiced by Roy Cummings, vaudeville comedian, in a tiny cottage on the banks of the Housatonic River, six miles from here.

Mrs. Helen Gladys Cummings and her baby girl of five, first wife and child of Cummings, dwell in amity with Mr. Cummings and Mrs. Irene Shaw Cummings, wife No. 2, under the same roof.

Cummings says the arrangement is "economical." He outlined the reasons for his complicated menage as follows:

"She (Mrs. Cummings No. 1) helped me get my start in life. For years she worked by my side when her love for me was as dead as a doornail. Even though the romantic situation was nil, she always continued a good pal.

"When we parted she wouldn't take more alimony for herself and our little daughter, Edna, than she felt was due her.

"Just because we clashed temperamentally I couldn't expect her to die. I waited a while and got a transfer.

"Now the present Mrs. Cummings (No. 2) gets along splendidly with Mrs. Cummings No. 1 and myself.

"Mrs. Cummings No. 1 and I never did think married people should let themselves get to the hair-pulling stage before they part. We needed our hair in our business, so we parted friends.

"No one can say I ever left a wife out in the cold to shift for herself.

"I think Mrs. Cummings No. 1 suggested the idea to make it pleasant and easy for us all around by living under the same roof.

"Both Mrs. Cummings No. 1 and Mrs. Cummings No. 2 threaten to pick out Mrs. Cummings No. 3 if I can't hang on to No. 2."

Greim, twenty-three years old, of No. 20 Rose Cliff street, Roslindale, and containing his mother and sister, collided with an automobile operated by George Shatto, fifty-nine years old, of No. 465 Topia street, Roslindale, at Walk Hill and Canterbury streets, Forest Hills.

With Shatto were his wife, Elizabeth, and three children, Paul, George, Jr., and Virginia, respectively aged nine, five and two years. They were all removed to the City Hospital by the police, where it was found that Mrs. Shatto had received a lacerated scalp and a possible fracture of the skull.

BATTLE IN AIR WITH BURGLARS

Police Pursue Suspect, Who Leaps Over Seven East Boston Buildings

In East Boston today two officers chased Harold S. Jordan of No. 44 Maverick street over house tops for nearly a block, firing at him as he jumped from roof to roof.

Two men were forcing an entrance to Andy's Lunch, No. 40 Maverick street. A detail of six officers were sent to the scene.

They saw a man crouching in the alley at the rear of the lunchroom. Before they reached him he had started up the water spout toward the roof. Patrolmen McKee and McPhee climbed onto a small porch roof and up a ladder to the top of the building, three stories high. The fugitive was in full flight when they yelled to him to stop. The man answered by leaping seven feet through the air to the roof of the adjoining building.

The officers leaped after him. When the man jumped to the next building the officers pulled their guns and fired. He kept on. After jumping from roof to roof for a total of seven houses the officers fired another shot and the man stopped.

The officers saw another man running down London street. They yelled at him to halt. He ran faster. Three shots were fired after him and he went into a hallway, where he was captured. He gave his name as John Mascuchi, eighteen years old, of No. 103 Liverpool street, East Boston.

BUILDERS REFUSE BOOST PAY

New York, May 18.—Demands of the Building Trades Council, which claims 90,000 members, for a blanket pay increase of $1 a day and a collective agreement for a year, were refused at a conference by the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association. The refusal will result in a general strike June 1, Thomas B. Clarke, president of the council, declared.

Ten thousand painters and paperhangers today threatened to join the proposed strike. They demand a five-day week and $10 a day.

Employers, in refusing the demands, insisted a general strike is not likely and asserted that their offer of a bonus system will be acceptable to the majority of the locals connected with the council.

ROXBURY COMPOSER HONORED IN ROME

Rome, May 18.—For the first time the great Augusteum Orchestra played in the courtyard of the American Academy today. The program included music by Randall Thompson of Roxbury, Leo Sowery of Chicago and Howard Hanson of California, and attracted a large section of musical and intellectual Rome. The students, who conducted their own compositions, were greatly applauded.

Randall Thompson, who was born in New York city on April 1, 1899, prepared for Harvard at Lawrenceville School. At Harvard he won the Francis Boott prize in music for original composition. His college career was interrupted by the war. He enlisted in the Navy April 2, 1917, four days before the United States declared war on Germany. He served until December, 1918. He resumed his college studies and was graduated in 1920. Last June he was awarded the Walter Damrosch fellowship in musical composition at the American Academy in Rome.

Rome (A. P.)—Mrs. Corbett Ashby of England was elected president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance today.

TELLEGEN ACCUSED BY ACTOR

Is Named by Lew Reed in Answer to Divorce Action Filed by Reed's Wife

New York, May 18.—Lew Reed, the vaudeville entertainer whose name in private life is Lew Herzburg, today named Lou Tellegen as corespondent in an answer to divorce suit filed by his wife, Jennie Hyman Herzburg, known on the stage as Jessie Reed.

The other Jessie Reed (the Zeigfeld Follies beauty) has asked the newspapers, in referring to the Herzberg case to distinguish between her and Herzberg's wife.

Lou Tellegen

Tellegen, Jessie (Herzberg) Reed and an Indianapolis hotel are high lights in Reed's answer to his wife's suit.

Jessie Herzberg) Reed named Dorothy Blake, a vaudeville actress who won a divorce three months ago from Earl Hampton, in her suit against Lew Reed.

Dorothy Blake, in answer filed simultaneously with Reed's answer, makes a blanket denial of the charges preferred by Reed's wife.

Miss Blake brands as "pure bunk" the story alleged by Jessie (Herzberg) Reed of an affair with Reed at the Hotel Claridge on April 12, 1923. She asserts that a detective on the Claridge "raid" offered "to fix things up for her for $250 and keep her name out of the case."

company owned the Siboney, the ship on which Amandee served.

DEFIED THE CAPTAIN

Two days out from Havana, runs "French's" yarn, he was ordered to cover a lifeboat that had been painted. He told the second mate, he said, that such a task constituted manual labor and that union rules called for double time for all manual labor after 5 p. m.

"I went down to get my book," said French. "I showed the captain the union rules. He said, "Damn the union," and I said, "Damn you, mister." And he had me placed in irons."

LOSES BOTH HIS LEGS.

Frenchy said he sawed himself loose from the handcuffs and then was placed in leg irons and left in the unventilated pantry for eleven days.

He was discharged when the Siboney reached its Spanish destination. And later shipped home.

His legs constantly became worse and finally gangrene set in.

Barbers Raise Price of Shaves

Several Boston barber shops have jumped the price of shaves from 15 to 20 cents.

"Everybody must be saving up their money for vacations," said a Washington street barber. "Business has fallen off badly recently. Barbers are getting more wages; rent is higher; business is poor, nothing else to do but charge them 20 cents a copy for a shave."

SEVEN SLEEPING TOTS IN PERIL AS HOME IN WESTFIELD BURNS

Westfield, May 18.—Seven children of A. A. Lenois of Sandy Hill road narrowly escaped death when fire destroyed the Lenois home today.

The entire family was asleep when Lenois was awakened by the dense smoke which filled the house. There was barely time to escape. None of the furniture was saved.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a defective flue. Fire had been left in the kitchen range when the family retired.

SOLONS CARRY SUGAR APPEAL TO HARDING

Headed by Representative Maurice F. Greaney of Whitman, the Democratic members of the Legislature today petitioned President Harding to cancel the tariff and thereby reduce the price of sugar.

M. F. Greaney

Mr. Greaney discovered a fact which is not generally known. It is that the President has the right and power to increase, lower or suspend any of the duties in the tariff law passed by the Republican Congress.

Accordingly, Mr. Greaney and the Democratic members of the Legislature today sent the following appeal to the President:

"The Democratic members of this Legislature allege that the increased price of sugar is due in part to the rate of duty imposed by the last Congress on the raw material.

"In this Commonwealth the price of sugar is seriously affecting every home by the increased cost of this necessity. The increased price is an undue and unnecessary burden on the householders. We, therefore, ask that you exercise the power of your office to cause a reduction in the price."

HEART DISEASE CURE NEAR, DOCTORS TOLD

Dr. K. F. Wenckebach, professor of the first medical clinic of Vienna, told the members of the Boston Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease, that through research work and two successful operations the medical world will soon determine whether they can cure acute heart disease. The meeting was held at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. The operation is made on the clavicle or shoulder and a certain portion of the anatomy removed.

Shadow Land

CAN you imagine being photographed on a girder eight stories above the ground and have the Pomeranian you were using in the picture escape and start chasing a bird who was sharing the girder with you? This was the experience of Anita Stewart on the coast during the filming of scenes for her Cosmopolitan production, "The Love Piker." And to make matters worse, the dog was borrowed from a very dear friend, who at the time was critically ill in the hospital and to whom the loss of her pet might have proved a fatal shock. Without a thought of her own safety, Miss Stewart raced along the girder with the agility of a steeplejack, recaptured the Pom and calmly walked back and continued her work before the cameras.

He never resorts to the surgical knife, nor sends you a bill. His daily visits are free to all who wish to partake of his sunny benefits.

NEW SCREEN FIND.

FROM an army post where her father, Colonel Henry Clay Merriam, had raised her from childhood, comes movieland's newest "find," in the person of Charlotte Merrium. Miss Merriam is the "discovery" of Maurice Tourneur and appears in the leading feminine role of "The Brass Bottle." Up until a few weeks ago Miss Merriam never wore dresses nor had she even seen a street car. Her riding breeches are now in moth balls.

NURSE BATTLES 9 CAPTORS IN TENEMENT

New York, May 18.—A Woman's screams and the crash of a window through which she thrust an arm to wave a signal for help led the police today to the rescue of Miss Claire Breslian, thirty-year-old nurse at Bellevue Hospital, who had been dragged from the street by a band of youths.

The nurse, battered, bleeding and hysterical, was found in a two-room apartment on the second floor of a tenement on East 34th street. Police arrester Joseph McShea, seventeen.

McShea is said to have given the names of eight companions.

Miss Brealian was retubning home after midnight when three men leaped out and dragged her to the apartment.

There she fought the men off until police came.

FULLER JAILED FOR FAILURE TO YIELD BOOKS

Edward M. Fuller and William F. McGee, partners in the bankrupt brokerage firm of E. M. Fuller & Co., of New York, whose Boston branch on Washington street suspended last June at the time of their $3,000,000 crash, have been ordered to Ludlow street jail in Manhattan for contempt of court.

The order was made by Federal Judge Goddard on account of the refusal of Fuller and McGee to deliver certain papers and records needed by District-Attorney Banton of New York in his prosecution of Fuller for alleged bucketing.

Judge Goddard found them guilty of contempt in disobeying the order of Federal Judge Mack to turn the office records over to George S. Sprague, trustee in bankruptcy. Plea for writ of habeas corpus, releasing the brokers in custody of their counsel, was denied.

"All Advertising Is Retail and Local"

"All advertising is retail and local in the end no matter where printed or by whom paid for," writes James H. Collins, business expert.

Every manufacturer or distributor who advertises should tack that sentence over his desk and read it over before he plans a campaign.

Unless your message is retail and local, it misses the mark, for final sales are both retail and local.

The daily newspaper, being essentially local, and the great mouthpiece for the retailers, is obviously the medium for the thoughtful manufacturer who is looking for sales where market conditions are favorable.

LABOR DEDICATES ITS SECOND BANK IN NEW YORK; 21ST IN U. S.

ORGANIZING MANY OTHERS

System Started in Cleveland by R. R. Engineers Is Rapidly Spreading

New York, May 18 (By the Associated Press).—Labor's second venture in banking in New York city was dedicated today at the formal opening of the Federation Bank at Thirty-fourth street and Eighth avenue.

The new institution jointly organized by the central trades and labor council of this city and the State Federation of Labor, starts with an authorized capitalization of $1,000,000 and, according to its officers, a million stockholders.

TWO OTHERS PROJECTED.

Two other labor banks for which charters have been applied will bring the number in this city to four; all launched this year, and the number in the United States, where three years ago there were none, to twenty-three, including fourteen in operation and nine authorized by local or national unions.

The Amalgamated Bank of the clothing workers is already in operation on Union Square, New York.

A depository of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and one of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union remain to be opened.

The rapid spread of labor banks, attributed by union leaders and financiers to the quick success of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Co-operative National Bank at Cleveland, has started a mushroom growth of [illegible] co-operative labor enterprises ranging from mines to doughnut shops.

CO-OPERATIVE BAKERY.

Among novel labor ventures in this city is the Brownsville Co-operative Bakery, owned by a Socialist group. It has a $10,000 weekly output, each loaf and price of pastry bearing a union label with the emblem of the Socialist workmens' circle, an arm holding aloft a flaming torch.

There is a brotherhood investment company at Cleveland with a capital of $10,000,000, which finances businesses for other union groups and the $2,000,000 Coal River Collieries, know as "the mine with a soul," which digs and transports fuel to the homes of union men.

FIREMEN'S STRIKE IS POSTPONED

Dover, N. H., May 18.—The proposed strike of the Dover fire department scheduled for midnight, was postponed until next Wednesday, pending a public hearing of the charges brought by Fire Chief Charles E. Mitchell and a majority of his men against two assistant chiefs, whose removal they seek and a refusal of which occasioned the strike threat.

Assistant Chiefs Patrick Bradley and Terence O'Neil, charged with seven counts of conduct unbecoming an assistant fire chief, threatened tonight to bring counter charges against the chief and his forty-six colleagues.

HAMMER SLAYER PLOTS TO FLEE JAIL

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 18.—Police officials have intercepted correspondence from Clara Phillips, the California murderess, offering large sums of money if they should assist the prisoner in escaping from jail here.

As a result the authorities have doubled their vigilance over the woman and have decided that she may have no visitors.

The police have information that two persons have left Mexico for Honduras to assist the prisoner to escape.

Jesse Carson, wanted in Los Angeles on an arson charge, who was arrested here with two women, one of whom is believed to be Clara Phillips, issued a statement from his cell denying that the Phillips woman murdered Albert Meadows.

He claimed the killing was done by Peggy Caffee, former chorus girl, who accused Mrs. Phillips of the crime.

Carson is trying to obtain an interview with the President of Honduras, offering $1,000 to any persons who will bring it about. Carson is retaining an attorney for the suspected Clara Phillips and himself to fight extradition.

ADMITS WOMAN'S IDENTITY.

Carson's actions are accepted as an admission, the first he has made, that the woman posing in Tegucigalpa as "Mrs. Jesse Carson" is really Clara Phillips, who escaped from Los Angeles, California, after being sentenced to life imprisonment.

Detectives have been expected here for the past few days to take Carson, "Mrs. Carson," and possibly the second woman prisoner, known as "Mrs. R. M. Young," back to Los Angeles.

TO TURN PRISONERS OVER.

Necessary extradition papers were mailed some time ago. The American minister, Franklin Morals, said he did not anticipate any hitch in the extradition proceedings. Already the president of Honduras has notified the American minister that the prisoners will be turned over to the American authorities when they present proper credentials.

TIES ON TRACK ARE FOUND IN TIME

Tilton, N. H., May 18.—An attempt to wreck the night Boston to Montreal "flyer" by placing three railroad ties across the main line tracks of the Boston & Maine Railroad was discovered here.

The ties were found on the tracks by the engineer of a switching engine bound from Concord to Winnisquam. The engineer brought the engine to a stop just in time to avert its derailment.

Railroad and State police were summoned. They found that the night flyer was due to pass over the obstructed rails and it was only by chance that the switching engine preceded it.

Engineer John Flanders of Tilton in charge of the switching engine, said he noticed foot tracks from the scene of the obstruction leading toward Laconia.

MANY REBELS SLAIN BY BRAZIL TROOPS

Buenos Aires, May 18.—One hundred Brazilian rebels were killed and many wounded in retreating before State troops in Rio Grande do Sul near Bage, according to the State newspaper published in Santa Anna do Livramento. The dispatch was forwarded to this city by La Nacion's Rivera correspondent. The rebels are reported to have abandoned a large quantity of arms and ammunitions, as well as all their ambulances, many horses and a cannon. Two of their leaders were captured.

that many were burned to death before they could reach the door.

The work of identifying the bodies has not been completed because of the confusion and the stunned condition of those who escaped. Several whole families were wiped out.

"There was no one to blame," said the chief of police. It all happened so quickly a panic was natural."

All of the victims were either graduates, students of the little school or parents and friends.

UNABLE TO CHECK PANIC.

The superintendent of schools, on the stage with diplomas in his arms, made a futile attempt to stem the tide of panic. He shouted that all could get out safely if they took their time, but his voice was lost in the screams.

The superintendent and those of the graduating class being furthest from the one stairway are believed to have perished.

The flames spread through the dry wooden building with almost unbelievable speed. Within a few moments after the explosion the whole rear portion was ablaze.

Many were trampled to death in the rush for the stairs. Among them were many children.

Others ran to the windows and leaped out. Many of them were seriously injured.

RUSHED TO HOSPITALS

In the meantime, without means of stemming the blaze, those who had escaped were forced to stand by and see the flames complete their work of destruction.

The more seriously injured were rushed to hospitals at nearby places or taken to their homes.

Collapse of an overcrowded stairway caused many of the deaths. The building was burned to the ground before outside aid arrived.

In many families from one to four children perished.

Fractures Skull

Eighteen-year-old Frank Humphrey received a fracture of the skull in a fall today at the Simpson Dry Dock Company's plant, wher ehe was employed. He was taken to City Hospital. He lives at No. 281 Lexington street, East Boston.

ROOSEVELT TROPHIES ARE SWEPT FROM WHITE HOUSE

Washington, May 18 (C. N. S.)—Booty of many a dangerous adventure through jungles, swamps, mountains, deserts and forests, the wild animal trophies left in the White House by Theodore Roosevelt have been removed by orders of President Harding to the National Museum of the Smithsonian Institute.

Buffalo heads, moose heads, deer heads, and a variety of other heads, each giving mute testimony to the shotgun prowess of the late huntsman-president are being re-conditioned by experts in the National Museum.

Friends of President Harding have said that such evidence of the slaughter of wild animals is repellant to him.

union claims that refusal of the firm to give the clerks a Tuesday half-holiday brought about the strike.

The firm operates seven stores.

More than 2,200 shoe workers were on strike here today and many more were idle as a result of the closing of one large factory yesterday and the action of the treers and edgemakers who carried out today their vote to strike in company with the dressers and packers.

The strikers, who were afiliated with the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, demand a 20 per cent. wage increase and abrogation of a clause in their agreement with Manufacturers' Association which calls for reference of disputes to the State Board of Arbitration.

The general officers of the union have revoked the charter of the dressers' and packers' local because of the strike.

The lasters, cutters and stitchers, which have the largest locals among the 15,000 shoe workers in the city, are still at work. Unless some settlement is reached it is feared that other factories will be forced to shut down.

LEVIATHAN HERE FOR FINAL TOUCHES

The Leviathan, the world's greatest ship, arrived here today and hove to off Graves Light.

Arrangements were completed to warp the mammoth liner to her berth at the navy drydock, South Boston, at high tide.

The Leviathan, once the German Vaterland, will remain at drydock two or three weeks to permit an army of workmen to recondition her hull.

She will then be taken to the South Boston Army Base where $500,000 worth of furnishings will be put on board. Included will be around 1000 whiskey glasses.

Other articles of new equipment are 221,278 pieces of china, 48,085 pieces of glassware, 71,798 pieces of silver, 23,000 galley utensils, 34,000 pounds of blankets, 4,499 pounds of mattresses, 190,000 pounds of linen, 76 lifeboats, 42 refrigerators, 140 clocks and 600 telephones.

More than 200 sub contracts have been let. Perhaps the most difficult of all the work to be done will be the fitting of four new propellers and tail shafts.

Everything going aboard the ship except the linen, which comes from Ireland and Scotland, will be American made. All the work done will be done by American workmen.

The sinking fund commission of New York City has warned Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board that docking space for the Leviathan would be withheld unless he reconsidered his decision to have the ship reconditioned in Boston and awarded the contract to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Chairman Lasker has failed to take the threat seriously thus far.

HOLD FERRYBOAT FOR YOUTH HURT IN FALL

Frank Humphrey, Jr., eighteen-year-old painter, was knocked from a staging today at the Simpson dry dock in East Boston. He fell fifty feet, receiving a fracture of the skull. On the way to the City Hospital one of the ferryboats was held up twenty minutes to bring him over to the city side. Humphrey lives at No. 281 Lexington street, East Boston.

MRS. NICHOLS WINS RIGHT TO SEE HER CHILDREN DAILY

$100,000 OFFER IS REVEALED

Husband in December Tentatively Agreed to Settle Fortune on Wife

While efforts are being made by counsel to effect a complete reconciliation, Mrs. Ruth Buckingham Nichols, estranged wife of John E. Nichols, wealthy Boston wool broker, is to be permitted to see her children daily.

This announcement was made following an all-day conference between counsel for husband and wife.

Attempts to straighten out the Nichols marital difficulties were made as long ago as last December, it was learned. At that time it is understood Nichols tentatively agreed to settle the sum of $100,000 on Mrs. Nichols, while she was to waive claim on his estate at his death. The agreement was never signed.

WIFE REJOICES.

Declaring her love for her children and expressing joy at being permitted to see them daily, Mrs. Nichols at the same time exclaimed:

"But I'll never live with John Nichols again!"

Counsel for Mrs. Nichols is seeking to bring about a reconciliation through the mutual love of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols for the three children. They are hopeful that after Mrs. Nichols has visited the children in Wellesley Hills, she may be persuaded to live at home with her family again.

Although Mrs. Nichols has already started court action, following the attack of Nichols and a group of hired detectives on her and her servants when she fled to a cottage at Billerica with her children, counsel explained the love which motivated each in this strange drama of domestic life will prevent them from airing their troubles in the divorce court.

FOSTER TO SUE.

Clarence Foster, chauffeur, with whom Nichols alleged Mrs. Nichols was on familiar terms, has declared he will bring criminal and civil action against Nichols. He charges assault and battery, nonpayment of wages and unfounded accusations reflecting on his character.

Friends of the Nichols family are discussing the probable meeting of Mrs. Nichols with her mother, Mrs. Margaret E. Buckingham, living at the Wellesley Hills mansion, and temporary custodian of the children, guarded by detectives in the Nichols home.

Mrs. Nichols has charged her mother forced her into a mercenary marriage with Nichols thirteen years ago.

Bottled Larvae Object Lesson in Schools

Providence, R. I., May 18.—One thousand bottles of mosquitoes are being distributed among the rooms in the public schools here as a part of an educational campaign being carried on to familiarize the children with the pests in their embryo stage and to enlist their services in their destruction.

With the bottled larvae will go 40,000 circulars explaining what each jar contains, and urging the children to join in the anti-mosquito campaign.

POLICEWOMAN NABS 2 AS FILM MASHERS

Agnes Callahan.

Boston police women continue to round up alleged "mashers." Policewoman Agnes Callahan arrested two men in a local theatre charged with annoying and accosting women.

They were Warren Lake, thirty-nine years old, of No 84 Everett street, Arlington, and William Carra, twenty-five years old, of No. 15 Bickerstaff street, Boston.

The policewoman charged that the arrested man accosted her in the theatre and caused considerable annoyance.

"THE THREE SISTERS" AT MAJESTIC TONIGHT

For the concluding three performances of their Boston engagement at the Majestic Theatre the Moscow Art Theatre will present Anton Tchekhoff's "The Three Sisters," beginning tonight. This, more than any other play, is said to disclose Tchekhoff's great genius for conveying an undercurrent sense of life, deeper and far more spectacular than the life on the surface of the drama. This play of three sisters who are held fast in a provincial town and who lift hopeful, dreaming eyes to the unattainable golden horizons of Moscow, is described as quiet and unarresting as any chronicle of country life and yet under its still surface runs a turbulent stream of life, a heroic struggle of imprisoned spirits.

MARONE'S WIFE CLEARS WIDOW OF CROKER

New York, May 18.—That Mrs. Richard Croker, widow of the Tammany chieftain, is not the woman who lived in Northampton, Mass., with Guy B. Marone as his wife, was practically established here through the statement of Mrs. Marone at her home, No. 31 Charles street, Greenwich Village.

It was the contention of Mrs. Ethel C. White, daughter of Croker, that her stepmother had lived in Northampton. Mrs. White's petition for an intervention in the Probate Court proceedings was allowed by the Irish Court of Appeals.

Marone was not at home, but his wife admitted that she and her husband had lived at one time in Northampton. They have lived in Greenwich Village for the past eight years.

Mrs. Marone is apparently in her thirties and is comely. She is American born, while her husband is said to be a native of Italy.

REFORM URGED IN WORKMEN'S INSURANCE

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Senator Warren E. Tarbell of East Brookfield today announced that he is to start an Initiative and Referendum campaign appealing to the people to stop all foreign insurance companies from transacting Workmen's Compensation Insurance in this State.

Such a campaign will put the State into the throes of the hardest insurance battle ever fought here and may surpass the sensational developments disclosed by the Armstrong probe.

Senator Warren E. Tarbell

Tarbell has already prepared the draft of his initiative petition. It very briefly, but positively repeals the laws "which authorize foreign insurance companies to insure against liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act."

$24,000,000 PAID.

Nine other petitioners will join with him. He then will have his petition circulated among the people for signatures. He will submit his bill to the next Legislature. If the Legislature declines to oust the foreign casualty companies, he will present the case to the people for their decision.

"It is not generally known," said Mr. Tarbell, "that the premiums paid by citizens of this State to the foreign casualty insurance companies amount to $24,000,000 a year.

"An enormous proportion of that amount is kept as profits by the corporations and is sent back to their home offices, principally in England and Canada. Out of the $24,000,000 they collect annually, they pay out but $6,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 in damages to injured workingmen and women.

ENGLAND GETS PROFITS.

"Those are profits collected on the injuries and deaths of American working men and women by foreign corporations.

"The Employers' Liability Insurance Corporation, the biggest of them all, is an English concern which maintains a dummy board of directors in this country who hold less than $6,000 of the company's stock. Their investments in this country amount to only a few hundred thousand dollars.

"It is about time that the people of this State decide whether they want these blood profits to be taken out of this country by foreign corporations."

MEANS LOWER RATES.

Senator Tarbell also announced that he will prepare an initiative petition to have the State transact workmen's compensation insurance similar to Ohio, where it is done by the State with the result that the employers pay lower rates to insure their employes and the latter receive higher benefits in the event of accident.

Tarbell for two years has been in constant warfare against Charles J. Hodsdon, Martin T. Joyce and other officials of the American Federation of Labor. They have opposed his anti-insurance bills and he has accused them of being traitors to labor and has intimated they are in collusion with the big insurance corporations.

A. F. L. APPROVES.

Hodsdon and Joyce accused Tarbell of making false statements in the shelter of the Senate privilege rules, which permit him to say what he cares to say without fear of libel.

Tarbell today announced that he has received word from Washington that the executive council of the American Federation of Labor has voted to instruct President Gompers and Vice-President Duncan to appear before the convention of the Massachusetts Federation, to be held in Worcester, and to state that Tarbell's State insurance bill is perfectly consistent with the aims of organized labor.

QUIZ ATHLETE IN STUDENT MYSTERY

Chicago, May 18.—Investigation into the disappearance of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student, that gained impetus with the detention of Charles "Chuck" Palmer, star athlete, today centred on a story told by Mrs. Violet Bachman, Palmer's former friend.

On the strength of Mrs. Bachman's charge that Palmer told her he knew all "about the Mount case," the star football, baseball, basketball and track athlete was seized at his fraternity house and is being held incommunicado.

Palmer steadfastly denied statements attributed to him and repeated his denials when confronted with Mrs. Bachman, formerly Miss Violet Lawson.

"I never talked to her about Mount and I don't know anything about him," Palmer said. His chief concern seemed whether he would be released in time to pitch for Northwestern in its game with Purdue University tomorrow.

Mrs. Bachman said Palmer had escorted her on two occasions, once in September and again in November, 1921. Palmer admitted he had met Mrs. Bachman during the Summer of 1921.

Abbot L. Fletcher, an attorney of Minneapolis, who came here to investigate Mount's disappearance announced that he had talked with two students who saw Mount alive after the class rush of September 21, 1921.

SCHWAB PAID NOTE THAT MRS. HAYES GAVE BOSTON CONCERN

IS ACCUSED OF TRYING TO 'DODGE'

five years he knew that remarkable financial adventuress.

What was the relationship between the two which prompted a man of Schwab's standing to pay a $10,000 note which he charged was forged?

The $10,000 represented part payment for the excavation for the Hotel Chatham in Brookline. White's firm had the contract.

ACCUSED BY MRS. HAYES

Mrs. Hayes today accused Schwab of trying to "get from under." She made a statement in New York through Abner Siegal, counsel for the Detroit Fidelity and Surety Company, which furnished her $10,000 bail.

"Mrs. Hayes says," declared Attorney Siegal, "that when the steel man saw the apartment hotel in which Mrs. Hayes was interested show signs of toppling, he withdrew his support and denied he ever signed notes or guarantees.

"Mrs. Hayes says that, when Schwab saw that the hotel project was not going through, he decided to 'get from under.' He then denied that he had signed either notes or the alleged guarantees held by Mrs. Hayes.

STEEL MAGNATE ACCUSED.

"Mrs. Hayes says she believes that Schwab, fearing that he might have to stand good for all the notes, Schwab probably thought that, with denounced all the papers. Mr. all his influence and money, he could successfully evade standing good for this money."

On top of this assertion by Attorney Siegal is a flat declaration by Mrs. Hayes in person that the Schwab endorsements on the disputed notes are genuine. She says:

"The guarantees and endorsements on the contested notes were signed by Charles M. Schwab. This I can prove. Why, he actually paid money on account of some notes bearing the endorsement."

She made this statement following her plea of not guilty before the Grand Jury on a charge of forging the name of Schwab to a note for $25,000.

Mrs. Hayes broke silence for the first time today when she granted an exclusive interview to the Boston American. She denied that she forged Mr. Schwab's or anybody's name to notes or any other obligations.

MRS. HAYES BLAMES GREED.

"I am not worried," said she cheerily, "because I have done no wrong and have nothing to fear. At the proper time all this will be explained to the satisfaction of the public and my innocence shall be established. My conscience is clear. It has been very annoying and humiliating, but it will all be fully and properly accounted for in due time.

"Chatham, Inc., was a good promotion. It should and would have gone over if certain persons had not been so greedy. By their methods they pulled it all down about our heads.

"The only offence that I committed was working my very hardest to make it a success. I thought of Chatham night and day. It is a pity that it could not go through as planned. It had promise—great big promise."

The interview was given at the office of Attorney Leslie C. Ferguson, at No. 110 William street.

BEATEN BY BILLS.

"I did not realize what we were stepping into when we took over Chatham, Inc. It proved a terrible

MRS. MYRTLE B. HAYES

muddle. There were heaps and heaps of unpaid bills. The original promoters did not break the sad news all at once.

"No, they fed it out like slow poison," interrupted Attorney Ferguson.

"Exactly," agreed Mr. Hayes. "It proved a frightful handicap, one that we might have overcome under different conditions, but work as I did I could not avert what happened. Nobody can accuse me of not doing my best. While I regret that I was compelled to face all this, everything is bound to come right in the end. Just wait and see.

TO CONTINUE BUSINESS.

"I cannot discuss where and when I first met Mr. Schwab. That is a subject banned by my counsel. Nor can I discuss those notes at this time other than to say that I committed no wrong.

"This ordeal has not discouraged me. I shall keep right on in business. I have not settled upon any fixed plan. I don't think I shall attempt to promote any more hotels. I do know that I shall not return to the millinery business.

"There are many things that a woman can do who is not afraid of hard work. And I have worked hard in my life.

"I have not yet heard from my husband. He is still in Maine. I have not received a letter or telegram from him, nor do I think it queer. We understand each other perfectly. We are not in the least bit estranged. When a couple have been married twelve years they ought to know each other pretty well. I know that my husband has confidence in me and that is why I do not fret about not getting word from him.

DENIES WRONG-DOING.

"I don't expect him to come to New York, nor do I expect to go to Maine. I shall not have time. Judging from what my attorneys have told me in conference, I shall have to be at their beck and call for some time to come.

"I have no ill feeling toward anybody. I know that I have not transgressed the law in any way. I have tried to conduct business honestly. There are many ramifications to Chatham, Inc. It is difficult to comprehend it without long study as my lawyers know. But I know the part I played and am sure of the outcome."

$1,000 BLAZE IN CORDAGE PLANT

Damage estimated at $1,000 was caused by fire today in the mop and cordage factory of the E. H. Tate Company, No. 67 Sudbury street. The building is a six-story brick structure. Fire Chief Taber declared the fire started in cotton refuse.

3 POLICEMEN PRAISED FOR SAVING LIFE

Police Commissioner Wilson, in general orders read at all stations, commended Patrolmen Bailey, Cote and O'Handly, all of South Boston station, for intelligent work in saving the life of a man who sought death in Fort Point Channel.

Patrolman Hayes

On the night of May 5, a middle-aged man attempted to commit suicide by jumping into the channel from the Broadway bridge. He was rescued by a fellow citizen in an unconscious condition.

Patrolman Bailey, after telephoning for a patrol wagon, made immediate application of the Schaefer method of resuscitation. Cote and O'Handly came to the assistance of Bailey and worked over the man on the way to the hospital, where physicians said they had undoubtedly saved a life.

Patrolman HolmesPatrolman Russell

Police Commissioner Wilson also commended Patrolmen Holmes, Hayes and Russell of the Joy street station for the alertness in effecting the arrest of three criminals who on May 5 attempted to hold up Mary Severson in the hallway at No. 33 Hawkins street and steal a payroll of $625.

Patrolman Hayes caught one of the men after a chase, the second was caught in his rooms a short time later by the three policemen, and the third, an employe of the firm, was arrested for informing the hold up men of the lay of the land.

BONAR LAW SENDS FOR HEART SPECIALIST

London, May 18.—Sir Thomas Horder, well-known British heart and stomach specialist, departed for Paris today to treat Premier Andrew Bonar Law, who is ill in the French capital. The ill health of the Premier has revived reports that he will resign soon. It was regarded as significant that the Daily Express recalled Bonar Law's statement when he took office that he would resign if his health failed.

The convicted men will be transferred to prisons in France while their counsel appeals to the Court of Cassation.

$13,750,000 Spent for Soviet 'Red' Propaganda

Nikolai Bukharin, editor of the Communist organ, the Pravda, has announced the results of his inquiry about representatives of the International abroad.

G. S. Zinovieff is accused of having paid to secret "lady agents" of the Third International in Great Britain and France more than £350,000.

The total of funds spent by the "comrades" mentioned, for which no accounts or documents are available, exceeds 27,000,000 gold rubles (about $13,750,000).

DIVORCE SOUGHT BY FORMER ACTRESS

Mrs. Lillian S. Gott of Somerville, known on the stage thirty-five years ago as Lillian Brunell, and later as Ward, of the theatrical team of Ward and Fox, brought suit in East Cambridge Superior Court for divorce against Myron S. Gott, a Somerville policeman. She alleges desertion.

Mrs. Gott alleges Gott, to whom she was married in 1891, deserted her in 1917 by moving to an upstairs apartment when they lived at No. 274 Highland avenue, Somerville, following an altercation. The suit has not been contested.

Gott sued for divorce from his wife in 1920, alleging cruel and abusive treatment, which he alleged took place in May, 1919. His suit was dismissed.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN BY NANCY HOYT'S ILLNESS, SAYS EX-FIANCE

ALL OTHER RUMORS "LIES"

Declares Love Match Is Postponed, but Refuses to Speak of Wedding in the Future

New York, May 18, (I. N. S.)—Branding as "a lie" a story that his engagement to Miss Nancy Hoyt, Washington society debutante, was broken, due to the unfortunate romances of his fiancee's sister, Lieutenant Frederick Wiseman-Clarke today insisted the engagement was severed solely because of Miss Hoyt's illness.

The young English naval officer, who captured the heart of one of the beauties of the capital, paused thoughtfully for fully two minutes before answering whether he would marry Miss Hoyt at some future date.

"Well, I'm afraid I cannot say yes or no to that question," he answered. That is a very scandalous story the papers have printed saying the engagement was broken because of Mrs. Horace Wylie's love affairs. I know Mrs. Wylie and I think she's a very fine woman. We have known of her marriages for a long time.

"SERIOUSLY ILL."

"The wedding was called off because the young lady became seriously ill—quite suddenly."

"How serious?"

"Oh, very serious. She probably will be ill for a long time."

"Is the engagement broken or postponed?"

"Postponed."

"The marriage will take place in the future, then?"

"Well, I'm afraid I cannot answer that," he said.

CALLS IT FICTION

His mother, Mrs. W. E. Wiseman-Clarke, walked into the room in the meantime. The young man grew nervous.

"One thing I want settled," he said. "My mother had no disagreement whatsoever with Mrs. Henry Hoyt, nor did Mrs. Horace Wylie enter the case."

It had been suggested by friends that the Wiseman-Clarkes were horrified to hear Mrs. Nancy Hoyt's sister, Mrs. Horace Wylie, had been divorced twice and that her first husband had committed suicide.

The Englishman branded that as fiction.

The members of the Hoyt family are silent. Miss Hoyt was under care of a physician. However, from a source close to the family it was learned that there is some improvement in her condition, although Mrs. Hoyt is said to be prostrated with the new shock that has come in the much complicated heart affairs of her children.

Society Plans Big Cambridge Fair, Say Betty Alden

Mrs. Thomas E. P. Rice (Elizabeth Lyman) and her sport-loving husband are prominent among the younger married set along the North Shore, where their place at Hamilton is known as the "Old Brown House." Mrs. Rice, a bride of last June, is the daughter of the Charles F. Lymans.

By BETTY ALDEN.

EVERYONE from two to fifty-two will find something amusing at the big fair which society out Cambridge way is staging on June 1.

Donkey rides, running and jumping stunts, a Punch and Judy show, peanuts and popcorn, to say nothing of balloons and beautifully colored drinks, will all help to make it a lively occasion for the youngsters. Many "grownups" have already made reservations at the tea tables over which Mrs. Richard H. Dana will preside. Pretty flower vendors will be on hand to beguile the passerby, and if you cross Mrs. A. Graham Carey's palm with the proper amount of silver she will tell you all sorts of things about the future.

In the evening—from 8 until 11 o'clock—there'll be dancing out-of-doors on the tennis courts. The affair, which takes place on the grounds of the Longfellow House on Brattle street, is to benefit the Cambridge Neighborhood House. That golf-devoted matron, Mrs. Robert W. Knowles, is in charge of the dancing, while others working for the day's success include Mesdames Reginald Hull, John W. Suter and Charles Almy.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BATY BLAKE (Margaret Hunnewell) and Miss Gertrude Hunnewell sailed for Europe the other day on board the French liner Paris. The Blakes, whose Winter home is in Brookline, spend much of their time at Santa Barbara, Cal.

Others joining the Europe-bound travellers this week are those two nimble sisters, Berthe and Francesca Braggiotti, who sailed on Wednesday from New York, accompanied by their father, Isidore Braggiotti. Upon their arrival in Italy they will go directly to Florence, where they will open their old home. Later they will take a jaunt to Paris, and from there they will cross over to London and Oxford.

They will return to these shores early in July, as the Misses Braggiotti are due then in New York for further studies in dancing, which reminds me that lovely "Cecca" Braggiotti deserved no end of praise for her pluck in taking part in the recital which she and her sister gave last week at the Tremont Theatre. She went through all her dances as gracefully as ever, despite the awkward bandage covering one knee.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT AMORY have been spending a few days in New York at the Belmont.

MR. AND MRS. MAXIMILIAN AGASSIZ of Boston and Newport have arrived at their Summer home in the latter place, after spending much of the Winter in the South.

TRADE EXPERTS ARRIVE FOR CONVENTION

Several experts of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce arrived in Boston today from Washington to address the closing sessions of the two-day New England foreign trade convention conducted by the Boston Chamber of Commerce and other New England trade boards.

These experts included Dr. Julius Klein, B. A. Lunquist, Grosvenor M. Jones, Alan G. Goldsmith, Edward T. Pickard, John Matthews, Jr., Arthur R. Butman, Wilbur J. Page, Henry H. Morse, Walter H Rastall and A. J. Wolfe.

JAPANESE TO SPEAK.

Speakers at tonight's banquet to the Copley-Plaza Hotel include Baita Fujiyama, president of the National Federation of Chambers of Commerce of Japan; Captain Robert Dollar of San Francisco, head of the Dollar Steamship Company, and Matthew C. Brush of New York.

"I take no stock in the theory that we can't expand our foreign trade because the world is bankrupt and cannot buy," said W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. "The world has been and is paying today for the goods being bought in this country. We are not to deceive ourselves as to conditions in Europe."

B. U. READY TO AID.

Dean Everett W. Lord of Boston University College of Business Administration said: "When the business men of New England want more effective instruction in foreign trade in our colleges all they need do is to give the assurance that the students will be placed and we will do our share in promoting the foreign trade of the nation."

He said the colleges have done little to teach the truths about foreign peoples and that the young men of the United States know little about the manner of thought and customs of the people of other nations. To be really successful in foreign trade, he said, the business men of this country must get away from the idea that the people of other countries must learn our language in order to do business with us. "That is not the proper attitude for us to assume," he said.

Amateur Sends Radio Message Half Way Around World

Hartford, Ct., May 18.—Announcement was made here that an amateur radio station has succeeded in transmitting signals approximately half way around the world, establishing a new long distance record.

A ship operator reports he heard the station operated by E. W. Rouse at Galveston when he was 100 miles southwest of Ceylon in the Indian Ocean, a distance of 11,000 miles.

WARD MISSING MONTH BEFORE THE SLAYING

New York, May 18.—Testimony that Walter S. Ward had ben missing from his home for a month just prior to the slaying of Clarence Peters, Haverhill, Mass., youth, was given by Police Lieutenant John McGowan of New Rochelle, N. Y., today at the investigation being conducted by Deputy Attorney-General Chambers. McGowan said he had been detailed to seek Ward at the request of his wife, and that he found him a h Bowl Bar Truck.

GOULD "VICTIM OF CURSE OF PHARAOHS"

Paris, May 18 (I. N. S.)—George Jay Gould, Sr., American financier and railway magnate, who died on the French Riviera Wednesday after a lengthy illness may have been another victim of the "curse of the Pharaohs," according to a dispatch from Mentone today telling of a superstitious report which has grown up there since the American's death.

Gould and his second wife were traveling in Egypt when Lord Carnarvon was engaged in opening the tomb of Tutankhamen in the Valley of the Kings.

Gould visited the tomb and joked with Lord Carnarvon about the superstition that a curse of death would descend upon anyone who disturbed the sanctity of the aged sanctuary. Neither Lord Carnarvon nor Gould took the Pharaoh legend seriously.

Within a few days both Gould and his nephew, Frank J. Gould, contracted heavy colds. The elder Gould's illness was diagnosed as pneumonia. He was taken to the Riviera where a villa was rented. His heart grew weak and attending specialists were plainly puzzled.

BANKER TAYLOR JAILED FOR 3 YEARS

Frank L. Taylor, president of the First National Bank of Warren, closed early in March, was sentenced to serve three years in Plymouth jail when he pleaded guilty to the misappropriation of $[illegible] worth of the bank's securities.

Frank L. Taylor

Sentence was passed by Judge Morris in Federal Court, on the recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney John [illegible] [illegible].

Taylor was arrested in [illegible] [illegible] go and brought back to [illegible] [illegible] nearly two months ago [illegible] Federal [illegible] indictments growing out of the closing of the Warren bank.

In view of Attorney Sullivan's statement before the court that Taylor "had no intention of allowing the securities to be embezzled," it is not considered likely that the embezzlement indictments found will be pushed.

Federal authorities consider Taylor a tool of Joseph B. Marcino of Buffalo, who is said to have used some of the proceeds from the sale of the Warren bank securities to bolster up the Niagara Life Insurance Company of Buffalo.

Both Marcino and Abraham Goldman, his father-in-law, were indicted in connection with the charges against Taylor. Marcino is still at large. Goldman's trial is scheduled in June.

ATTACK CURLEY'S BUFFALO JUNKET

Proposed expenditure of city funds to cover the expenses of Mayor Curley and the Mayor's committee at the dedication of the Hotel Statler in Buffalo on May 19 is branded by the Finance Commission as "an illegal expenditure of the city's fund."

Mayor Curley recommended to the council the adoption of an order providing expenses for the Buffalo trip not to exceed $2,000, to be paid from the Reserve Fund.

Mayor Curley lost no time in terming the attack of the Finance Commission ample proof that the Finance Commission has not risen above the pin-sticking sub-strata in which it has been immersed for the past eighteen months.

He pointed out the plans of the E. M. Statler representatives to erect a $9,000,000 hotel in Boston, and said the trip to Buffalo is to be an expression of the good wishes and assurance of co-operation of officials of Boston in the erection of the new hotel.

SLEEPS IN CLOTHES; "SANE," SAYS JUDGE

New York, May 18.—It is not a sign of insanity to go to bed with your clothes on, if all the rest of your wardrobe has been stolen, according to Judge McLaughlin of Brooklyn.

John Hoch, sixty-eight, a janitor, was before the judge for examination as to his sanity.

Hoch said he rented a room in Smith street and moved his clothing in, but when he returned at night his clothes were gone. So he put on all he had left, placed a chair under the doorknob and went to bed. He added:

"I wasn't going to take any chance of having the clothes stolen I had taken off my back. Then I was arrested."

Cellars and Attics Rented to Store German Marks

Berlin, May 18.—Germany's reserve stock of banknotes, 8,000,000,000,000 marks—not counting another 8,000,000,000,000 in circulation—keeps President Havenstein of the Reichsbank busy renting rooms, cellars and attics so the banknotes will have a roof over their heads.

It is a small bank indeed that has not a few billions tucked away. Motor trucks are hourly backing up to the Reichsbank, where the corridors, vaults and basement are choked with bales of money, and are carting it away to other quarters.

HARVARD YOUTH IS TRAILED

Drowning Theory Abandoned When It Is Found Clapp Took Clothing With Him

Discovery today that a pair of blue trousers, khaki shirt and white "sneakers" had been taken from the room of Verner W. Clapp, Harvard student, who has been missing since Wednesday, led the authorities to practically abandon the idea that he was drowned in the Charles River.

Clapp's clothing was found at the Weld boathouse yesterday and for a time it was thought he had been seized with a cramp while swimming. The river was dragged by the Metropolitan police without result. Today in checking up the clothing of young Clapp his roommate discovered that some of it had disappeared.

DROPS OUT OF SIGHT.

Police and friends of the missing student believe he changed from his regular clothing to the blue trousers, khaki shirt and sneakers at the Weld boathouse and then dropped out of sight.

This theory was strengthened when [illegible] Breene of the Metropolitan police stated that he saw a man answering Clapp's description and wearing blue trousers, khaki shirt and sneakers on the corner of Western avenue and Flag street at 1:4[illegible] o'clock yesterday morning.

Why Clapp has disappeared is a mystery. His roommates, college authorities and police can find no reason. According to W. R. Jackson, one of his roommates, Clapp was not in debt, had no love affairs, had not failed in his studies and was apparently in the best of health and spirits.

PARENTS NOTIFIED.

Clapp is the son of George H. Clapp of No. 101 S street, Washington, D. C. His parents were notified by telegraph and reported that they had not seen or heard from him.

Friends searched the river banks of the Charles most of the night. Today his roommates are searching Cambridge in the hope that if he is wandering around the city they will see him.

Added Inch Asked of Future Hub Policemen

Boston's future policemen must grow an added inch.

No more pigmies for the Hub's finest.

The Civil Service Commission has ordered that in the future all applicants for the police department must measure at least five feet eight inches in height.

This order makes the height requirement what it was before the police strike.

N. Y. PHONE CO. TO SPEND 300 MILLIONS

New York, May 18 (C. N. S.).—The largest telephone system in the world, the New York Telephone Company, will expend $300,000,000 for new facilities within a few years according to the annual report of President H. F. Thurber, published today. This will involve the raising of additional capital and the sale of new securities.

Last year the company sold an issue of $25,000,000 of 6½ per cent preferred stock among 80,000 [illegible], many of whom are paying for it on the installment plan.

The annual report shows that on December 31, 1922, the company had over two million telephones in operation in its territory, more than the combined service of London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Vienna, Liverpool, Brussels, Tokio, Budapest and Amsterdam. In the last year a daily average of 3,250,000 telephone calls was originated through the company's 583 central offices.

The assets of the company at the end of December amounted to $416,144,508. After paying 6½ per cent dividend on the preferred stock and 8 per cent on the common stock, the company's surplus was only $153,740 for the year.

JAIL EX-CANADA COP FOR FORGERY

John F. McMullen, former officer of the Northwest Mounted Police, was sentenced to nine months in the House of Correction today by Judge Reeves in Lynn Court for forgery and failure to support his wife and child.

McMullen, a powerfully built man of striking figure, was married about two years ago to Miss Jennie Carr, one of the most beautiful and talked of girls in Lynn.

About a year ago he forged the name of one of her relatives to a check for $66. In January he was in court for failure to provide. He was released on probation but has given his wife only $15 since. He was caught in Lowell.

COAL POURS INTO N. E. AS NEW HAVEN LIFTS EMBARGO

New York, May 18.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad announced today it had lifted all embargoes on eastbound freight, including anthracite coal shipments to New England, which had prevailed since the fuel shortage of last Winter.

The order removes the regulation of anthracite through the Campbell Hall gateway, near Poughkeepsie, which had been limited to 100 cars a day that would be accepted from connecting roads.

The Summer demand for anthracite in New England has already set in. The road reports, dealers being unable to supply more than a portion of the coal for which they had orders.

PUPILS OUT ON STRIKE IN MERRIMAC SCHOOL

TEACHER DEFIES "SUSPENSION"

Miss Elizabeth Collins, teacher, reports at school daily, the pupils refuse to study under another teacher and the school board will be asked to explain in court in regard to the attempted ousting of Miss Collins. Inset is sign on school. Above is Miss Alice Demarest, one of the strikers. Below a group of pupils.

Children Cheer Her When She Appears Today; Hearing on Case Tonight

Merrimac, May 18.—Miss Elizabeth Collins and her [illegible] two pupils of the Prospect street school, who struck yesterday because their teacher was dismissed by the School Board, defied the board today to oust the teacher or put in a substitute.

Miss Collins, who retained her key to the school building, came up from her Newburyport home today, arriving at the school at [illegible].

She was greeted with wild enthusiasm by her boy and girl supporters. They cheered her with such slogans as:

"We want Miss Collins. We have struck for her. We won't have anybody else."

DENOUNCE OFFICIALS.

Miss Collins opened the school. The pupils raced in but no session was attempted. Miss Collins merely sat at her desk. She said:

"I intend to stay here until my attorney tells me to do [illegible]."

The pupils have plastered up placards in the school denouncing Dr. Fred E. Sweetsir, chairman of the School Board, School Superintendent Knox and the school authorities. These placards read:

"Thick-head!" "Block-head!" "No Good."

The placards also bear caricatures of school officials.

The sidewalks near the school building are chalked with inscriptions written by the pupils about the strike.

HEARING SET FOR TONIGHT.

Both sides are marking time until the hearing in Amesbury Court tomorrow on the charge against Miss Collins of willfully disturbing a public school.

Miss Collins received notice today that the school board would hold a public hearing tonight on her case. It is understood the hearing will be continued to June 18, however, at request of Miss Collins' counsel.

The strikers say their parents are "with the teacher."

CITY OFFICIALS ARE ENJOINED IN STRIKE

Schenectady, N. Y., May 18.—The street railway company today obtained a temporary injunction restraining city officials from interfering with operation of trolley cars during the strike now in progress. Motor trucks and jitneys carried the business population to work. President Weatherwax declared the company was standing by the open shop system and a "book of rules" covering wages and working conditions. The strikers demand a contractural working agreement and recognition of their union.

JAZZ BARRED AT UPHAMS CORNER BALL

An old fashioned dance, at which all jazz will be barred, will be held tonight at Fox Hall, Uphams Corner, by Father Griffin Council of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic. The old fashioned waltz, Virginia reel, Portland fancy, Boston fancy, Lady of the Lake and the Lancers will be the order. William H. O'Brien, president of the council, will "call off" the old-fashioned dances.

ITALIAN CITY SHAKEN BY VIOLENT QUAKE

Rome, May 18 (By the Associated Press).—The city of Ancona and its neighborhood were visited last night by a violent earthquake accompanied by subterranean noises. Frightened inhabitants rushed into the streets and spent the night in open spaces. No casualties were reported and little damage was done.

CHAPTER I.

Andrea Pellor stood on the edge of the cliff at the back of the Indian Ocean Hotel and gazed out across twenty-five miles of moonlit bay. Beneath her slippered feet was the padded red clay of the terrace; above her head a vast trellis of matted Bougainvillea in full magenta bloom. Except for herself, the terrace was vacant, for the music of a third extra was in full swing and everybody else was dancing. It was not for lack of a partner that she stood alone. She had promised this very extra to four insistent men, but had excused herself to one after another of them, "Just for a moment. Just while I powder my nose."

They had all seen her run up the stairs in the main hallway; they had not seen her travel steadily on through the length of the hotel and come down the ladder-like exit into the garden. Why had she done it? That was a question that she herself could not have answered, but that did not occur to her as a matter for solution, so often had a similar impulse snatched her momentarily away from a too crowded world.

The manner of her going presents a slight index as to her composition and an analyst might draw from it even more—some indication of her precedents, perhaps of her age and at least of her training. A tyro at evasion would have sneaked away like a fox breaking cover and would have had to lock herself in the bathroom for the duration of the chase, but Andrea had been too clever for that. By a word and a backward glance she had left her pursuers held like so many cats at a rat hole, ignorant of the fact that they were the victims of a past-mistress in social subterfuge.

As a matter of record, she was no novice; one Continental and four London seasons stretched back for her into a dismally long past. She was twenty-five years old and tonight she looked her full age as she stood, tired and unmasked, in the white moonlight and gazed wanly, almost desperately, back through all those seasons of set smiles, set speeches, set customs and set sets.

A woman, like a country, is of feminine gender, but the comparison goes no further for the one is said to be happy only while without a history and the other never rests until she gets one, or what she thinks is one. Andrea had a past, but very little history. She was the only daughter of Lord Pellor of Pellor, a land-poor baron who could distribute five titles among his five sons, but very little cash. As a result Andrea had lived the life, if life you can call it, of tabulated impoverished English gentlewomen: Everything that the traffic will bear for the men of the family and for the girl just enough frocks at her coming-out to dissemble the bait that clothes the hook that catches the man with millions.

Looking back on her girlhood from twenty-five years old and a perch on a cliff on the moonlit coast of Africa, Andrea saw that she had once been happy. In the days, the brief Summer days at Pellor, comprising those seasons before she had come out, when, tattered and torn, pink-cheeked, fleet-footed and healthily hungry she had roamed the woods, waded the streams and lain eye to eye with the sun in the bracken of the ancestral demesne; in those days when frequently though incidentally she had frightened half out of their wits the wardens who guarded the game against the time of selling the shooting; in those far-off days when she

CRITICIZED MILITARY TEACHER

Assailants Declare They Were 'Teaching Him Patriotism'; Threatens Suit

New York, May 18.—Seized, bound and beaten by a masked band in a Columbia University dormitory, William Louser Werner, graduate of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., an overseas veteran of the 316th Infantry and an outspoken advocate of "free speech," threatens civil action against the university unless his assailants apologize.

The attack is believed to have resulted from letters of criticism written by Werner of statements made by Major William C. Foote, U. S. A., commandant of the university's reserve officers training corps. The men who seized and beat Werner told him they were "teaching him patriotism."

STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN
By Jo Swerling

MOVIE ACTORS—PARTICULARLY AMATEURS—HAVE NO more privacy than a goldfish. Several hundred Pepping Toms form a human wall around the little troupe every time they stop on location in Boston. The picture will soon be ready to cut and title.

STILL MORE AFFAIRS OF LADY BOSTON

As we go to press, Our Nell is knitting tiny garments, while Honest Elmer gazes at her tenderly. Will it be a boy? Or a girl? Elmer wonders. As far as we're concerned, we hope it'll be both—twins.

You will suspect from this that Our Nell comes out all right in "The Affairs of Lady Boston." But what she went through! It would take pages to reveal the perils of a great city through which she emerged, spotless and triumphant. But the least we can do, before we close this account of the manufacture of a two-reel picture with an all-amateur cast of Boston boys and girls, is to tell you about the big cabaret scene.

It was here, amid the white lights, that Our Nell first saw life. [illegible] were shot in the [illegible] Room of the Hotel [illegible] Cooper Hewitt lights had been artfully concealed behind the big square posts, and at a signal they were "kicked" on, throw[ing] a brilliant white light on all [illegible]

The patrons were delighted. Before they knew it the camera was grinding, and every customer found himself and his lady acting as an extra in "The Affairs of Lady Boston."

Orchestra Leader Big Hit of Picture

[illegible] The big hit of the picture will undoubtedly be a man who was not [illegible] a part of the project at [illegible] Leo Reisman. Leo is the lead [illegible] America, and what a brutal fiddle [illegible] what Leo plays [illegible] takes jazz and jazzes it up. He blues up the blues. He rags the rags. He put the sin in syncopate, but what a wonderful [illegible]

But to the picture. There were solo dances, group dances, comedy written in the script, comedy that crept in by accident, the way [illegible] footage than Von Stroheim [illegible] Mr. [illegible] hard [illegible] to make [illegible] The travesty was slated to be a two-reeler. After the cabaret footage it [illegible] up a twelve-reeler, with more scenes to shoot. The cutting of this film is going to [illegible]

Amateurs Troupe Like Old Times

From my view of the preliminary shots in the picture I can venture to predict that three of the amateurs in the cast will be heard from again. Those are the three actors who portray the roles of Honest Elmer, the handsome young juvenile; "Ma" Green and "Pa" Green, the mother and father of Our Nell. These three trouped like old timers.

There now remains the herculean task of cutting and editing the film, moulding it together into a coherent story, sticking in the sub-titles and making the negatives. A dozen prints will be made, we are promised, and shown in various motion picture houses about town.

It has been a lot of fun and a most interesting experiment. There is a wealth of talent afoot in Boston, as there is in every other city. It would be an excellent idea if some producers would make it a practice to produce an occasional two-reel picture like "The Affairs of Lady Boston," just to see what [illegible] possibilities could be developed.

This ends Hub-Bub's little journey with "The Affairs of Lady Boston." We hope the public will enjoy the completed picture as much as we did the observation of the picture in the making.

Nordstrom was killed while a prisoner in charge of Rideout, who alleges he attempted to escape.

[illegible] M. L. Smith's assistant [illegible] staff has been collecting [illegible] Rideout [illegible] against Nordstrom, as was at first intimated.

Six bullet wounds were found in Nordstrom's body. It is contended that Rideout lost control of his automatic and so shot five bullets into Nordstrom's body after the first bullet had killed the prisoner.

The book has been more hotly discussed than any previous novel in years.

And the author remains a mystery.

"You Know You Belong to Somebody Else"

IF there is any one thing that has made Nora Bayes popular, it's her way of singing her songs right at you. Sometimes she is full of burlesque, mimicry, laughter. Sometimes there's a sob in her throat, but always she's singing to you. "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else," Columbia New Process Record A-3862, is a waltz song with a bit of heart throb that Nora does deliciously. She sings it with a fine artistic sense, in a richly musical voice which records with delightful naturalness.

You'll be enthusiastic over this selection and you'll like "Dearest," the encore on the other side, as well. Both are Nora at her charming best.

But this record, from the June program, is only a sample of the good things in this newest Columbia release. All of the new records listed here are Columbia New Process Records—made with the wonderfully quiet surface that eliminates the annoying scratch and scrape of needle noise.

Tear out this list, take it to your Columbia Dealer and listen in on this delightful program of latest dance hits, newest songs and choice symphony selections.

All Columbia Records can be played on any phonograph.

Only in Columbia New Process Records will you find a positive freedom from distressing needle grind. The process is patented. No one else can produce anything even resembling Columbia's construction and improved surface.

TUFTS GETS READY FOR PURPLE BATTLE

The Tufts varsity baseball nine will go to Worcester Saturday to meet Holy Cross. Both teams are hitting the ball hard and a slugging match is expected.

Coach "Ken" Nash was dissatisfied with the showing of the Brown and Blue in their game with Boston College Wednesday and some changes in the team will result.

Harry Howland, who showed up so well against the Eagles will probably displace Smith at third unless Smith's lame arm takes a decided turn for the better.

The Jumbo outfield has slowed up and may be changed.

OLD TIMERS IN BASEBALL ARE REAL GOODS

Babe Celebrated His Forty-First Birthday

Babe Adams was celebrating his forty-first birthday [illegible] today. The young man gargled an [illegible] amount of lolly pops and Eskimo pies, and then meditated seriously on pitching a ball game against our Braves.

While the Babe was having his party, bald headed Dick was smiling serenely on the Brave bench, and rubbing the arm that [illegible] delightful and sensational [illegible].

Dick Hears the Applause of the Multitude Again

Dick heard once more the applause of the multitude ringing in his ears; tasted the glory of continued victory, and forgot all about the worry of trying to be a coach and get a manager's job, with retirement to the farm in West Nyack, just around the corner.

He's a pitcher again now, and will be until some club proves otherwise. And if he can unfurl his stuff as he did in his startling comeback the proof will be missing for quite a long time.

A tough pair of old birds, those two, Dick and Babe. They started hurling away, way back. Adams broke into money baseball in 1904, Rudolph three years later.

Each Was a Figure in World's Series Triumph

Each has been the outstanding figure in a World's Series triumph. Adams turned back the Detroit Tigers in 1909, winning three games for himself, and becoming a national hero, from an unknown rookie over night.

Rudy won the opening game for the Braves from the Philadelphia Athletics in the Fall of 1914, and showed the universe that the Boston club had a whole lot on Connie Mack's supposedly unbeatable team. Then he hopped into the fourth game and won that, too, accomplishing what has never been done before or since, a sweep of a title series.

Each has experienced the [illegible] From 1909 until 1917 Adams was a real first stringer with the Pirates. Then his wing went "bad." He couldn't do a thing in the Spring, and was released to St. Joe, in the bushes.

Age Must Be Served Say Babe and Dick

BABE ADAMS

Rudolph's Record

The tiny Brave pitcher who was dubbed the Little Master for his mound wizzardry as far back as 1914, is thirty five years old. He started pitching away back in 1906 at Fordham College. He went to New Haven that year, and was immediately drafted by Toronto in the International League. He was "covered" there till 1913, when the Braves finally managed to draft him. He was tried by the Giants in 1911, but McGraw claimed he was too small to be a pitcher, and chased him back. He had seven good seasons with the Braves before his arm went bad in '20. His best year was '14, when his work as one of the "Big Three"—the others being Tyler and James—rode the club to a pennant and a world title. That year he won twenty-seven games and lost ten.

Adams' Record

The youth who celebrates his forty-first birthday at Braves Field this afternoon crashed into pro baseball in 1904, with Parsons, in the Missouri Valley League. Two years later he was drafted by St. Louis and turned back to Louisville. He came up again in 1908 with the Pirates and was a mainstay of the pitching department until 1917. He was released to the minors that year, but didn't report. The next year he went to Kansas City and in mid-season was bought once more by the Pittsburgh Club. He has been a consistent winner ever since. The Babe first came into real prominence in 1909 when he won the deciding game in the World's Series with the Detroit Tigers. He made Cobb, Crawford and the rest of that mauling bunch look like bushers. This season the Babe dropped his first two contests and has since won four in a row. The last victory was a soft triumph over the Giants.

LEARN TO SWIM CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

The warm weather yesterday created a feeling for swimming, for many new members of the Boston American "Learn to Swim" campaign got started in the instruction classes at the Boys' Club of Boston.

The water in the Boys' Club tank is heated to a temperature of 74 degrees and those who receive instructions cannot seem to get enough swimming to last them until the next day.

The boys who have not already joined this campaign are missing a great deal. They are not only missing the opportunity of receiving expert instructions free of charge, but they are missing barrels of fun.

A great many high school boys, who have not as yet been able to swim fifty feet in order to secure a point towards graduation, are joining the campaign. Good idea, boys, you have another month to secure this point. Join the classes at the Boys' Club and the instructor in charge will sign your card as soon as you cover the necessary distance. This can be accomplished in shorter time than you think. Join the campaign and be convinced.

There is room for every boy who cannot swim. [illegible] many cannot join [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] started today. Clip [illegible] in today's Boston American [illegible] it at the Boys' Club [illegible] Green street, Charlestown, and [illegible] into the swim [illegible] from 3 to 5 [illegible] from 6.30 to 9.30 p. m. A [illegible] will be awarded to every [illegible] who learns to swim during [illegible]. Join today. There is [illegible] and the instructions are free of charge to all.

Jack Dempsey Wise to Tackle Tom Gibbons First

Jack Dempsey has proved his wisdom by agreeing to battle Tom Gibbons in a fifteen-round bout. It has been almost two years since the champion knocked out Georges Carpentier. He has been idle since that bout. Despite his greatness as a fighter, Dempsey requires work to keep him fit. The Gibbons tussle should do a great deal to make Dempsey ready for Jess Willard or Louis Firpo.

KENTUCKY TURF CLASSIC ON SATURDAY

Louisville, Ky., May 18. — The Kentucky Derby, famous turf classic of the Kentucky Downs, comes into another appearance at [illegible] historic track here Saturday. A remarkably open event, in the opinion of horsemen.

About eighteen horses will be at the webbing when it goes up to battle for the honor and for the prize of $50,000.

Among the eighteen entries [illegible] a slow and [illegible] being [illegible] back to respect for the Whitney-Greentree quartette of entries. Aside from these most of the talk [illegible] about the big Western horse [illegible]

The wise birds are not overlooking the [illegible] and shrewdness of E. R. Bradley, whose Blossom Time is a candidate for the Derby this year. In three workouts so far he has been impressive.

W. J. Salmon's Vigil, winner of the Preakness, is in here in charge of T. J. Healy, who makes no secret of his hopes of grabbing the two biggest purses of the year.

Drew [illegible] travel over the ten-round route. It will be the first main bout of this year at the Home of Action. And the regular ringsiders will be on hand early, as they are anxious to witness the defence of the title.

Manty is a good boy. He demonstrated this when he defeated Red Chapman, considered the best featherweight in Boston. He also turned back Suggs, which speaks well for his class.

Columbia Beats Green

New York, May 18.—Columbia won from Dartmouth, 7 to 0. The victory was a surprise inasmuch as Jeff Tesreau's men had already taken the Morningside combination into camp twice this season, once at South Field by a 7 to 3 count and once at Hanover, 5 to 3.

HARVARD-YALE TICKETS TO BE CUT

A limit of one ticket only to future Harvard-Yale football games in the Stadium will be placed on many Harvard graduates if recommendations of a large committee which has been studying the seating situation in the Stadium are carried out.

The committee, in its report, also urges a cut in the allotment of tickets to varsity players and coaches and old "H" men. Members of the football squad, assistant managers and assistant coaches will be allowed only eight tickets instead of ten, while the second team squad and the freshmen still have [illegible] allotment of four and two respectively. The coaches have been cut from six to four tickets.

If the report is adopted by the athletic committee old football men will in the future receive but two tickets instead of four. Members of the Varsity Club and the class of 187[illegible] which gave the Stadium, will also receive two each.

President Lowell, the Governor and the Mayors of Cambridge and [illegible] will be limited to six tickets [illegible]. It is recommended that the [illegible] treasurer should have a certain limited discretion beyond any hard and fast rules.

ARLINGTON DEFEATS MELROSE ON TRACK

This made the score 32 to 31 as the last event, the 880-yard run, was staged. In this Arlington took the first two places and the meet.

WHITE OFFERED $35,000 FOR LEONARD GO

Ike Dorgan, the manager of Charley White, received a letter from his battler that actually made him smile, which is quite a[illegible] accomplishment. White wrote that the Chicago promoters wanted to stage a fight between him and Benny Leonard, our lightweight champion.

Benny Leonard

"The promoters will give me $[illegible]000," writes Charley, "and what they are willing to give Benny I am afraid to mention." This sounds so well that it wouldn't be surprising if Billy Gibson signed up at once. He is in Chicago, where Gene Tunney fought on Wednesday evening.

That beautiful fancy braid straw with the special striped silk band.

WE are doing the greatest straw hat business in many years. The Newport is one of the reasons why. We have seen hats in other windows at $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 and while they may be very nice hats and worth the money, we have yet to see a hat, which for artistic styling and beautifully hand-twisted braid, can compare with this special Newport style of ours.

It stands out as the "spotlight" hat in our window display and it leads them all on pure merit. See this hat in our window and you will be prompted to follow the crowds right into our store.

It's a Lot of Fun to Open With Four Aces

Today the barricade is down—the windows are in, the new Straws are ready—and I'm opening with my Four Style Aces the most beautiful Hat Store in New England in the Truly Warner Building, at the corner of South and Summer Streets in Boston.

Last Saturday was the opening of the Straw Hat Season in Philadelphia, and when I opened with these Four Style Aces it was a repetition of the Style Sensation we created last year, only more so.

In my store, 1307 Market Street, we sold 14,895 hats, breaking all American records, and making a new World's Record for selling the greatest number of hats ever sold in one hat store in one day.

This Saturday I hope every man who comes in the South Station will come in and see the interior of the most wonderful store in this country that I have opened for your convenience, at the corner of South and Summer.

I want you to help me make another World's Record for the opening day of a New Headquarters for Hats in the heart of New England.

The Four Aces represent four Style Leaders in different types, and the rest of the "Drawing Cards" include a complete assortment of new styles and new Shapes.

Your Next Straw Hat

MOST straw hats look pretty much alike — at least for a short time.

And right there is where Knox straw hats have earned their splendid reputation. They look well and wear well right through the most trying season.

Workmanship and quality have never been [illegible] in a Knox hat.

The straw itself is of the first grade and free of the imperfections found in cheaper hats. Notice the generous overlap of the straw braid and see for yourself the even and sturdy stitching by highly skilled workers that gives each Knox straw hat an individual character.

The finish too, is of the finest, and the splendid old - fashioned real leather makes for head ease and all the comfortable feel of a soft hat.

Knox styling is always authoritative.

The long and distinguished record of the Delano stores in serving the conservative well-dressed men of Boston is fittingly reflected in our increased patronage and growth.

The new Delano store which has just been opened at Summer Street opposite Devonshire, is but the result of this continued policy.

Buy your Knox straw hat at any one of the three Delano stores today.

A lady friend who had used Wincarnis for a similar case recommended it to me. It simply acted like magic. It is really astonishing how quickly it made me well again. Just a few doses brought back my appetite. My nervousness disappeared. I began to put on flesh again, and in a short time I was entirely well. Thrilling Story of Man and Girl Who Are Utter Strangers Living Together in African Jungle had been a willing sacrifice to her harum-scarum brothers in many a scheme to shock old Aunty Gwen out of a year's growth—in those days verily she had been happy.

She hadn't realized it then, but she saw it now as she looked back upon the girl that she had been. Was it possible that she had already reached that bourne from which the tightening heart remembers youth? Oh, no! it couldn't be. To anyone else, to her girl friends, twenty-five years were necessarily a quarter of a century, but herself who had seen so much yet lived so little, revolted from that cold measure of time. Remembering girlhood, there came a tender curve to her mouth so different to her practiced society smile that it made her look young again—as young as any bud, heart swelling, lips heavy with dew and breathing the fragrance of untainted youth, that ever swayed, half without, half across, the portal of life.

And yet—youth dies so quickly; is ground so small in the mill of generations, lives so bitterly long in memory! Two tears welled out of Andrea's eyes and crawled down her cheeks slowly as though they were accompanying her thoughts along her course to womanhood. Like a mountain stream that leaps the first barrier of its rocky chains and from fronded shadows hurls itself steadily down toward stripped valleys and still lower levels until at last it strikes the wide, unbroken flats and dies with its own music, he saw herself as she had been during her first season, avid, then eager, then only curious, in constant diminuendo.

Her First Season

During that first season offers had come to her; not the measured advances of buyers in the marriage market, for about the brow of such budding maidenhood as had been hers there hangs a guardian halo that blinds the eyes of sane-aged men, but the o'erleaping onslaughts of youth-maddened hearts.

Names, half-forgotten, came to her mind readily tonight, names of inexpert but impetuous lovers: Jack Cheyne, three times a younger son; Harold F. L. Blunt, fondly known as Hell-for-leather B., disinherited at twenty for an escapade that cost his father twenty thousand pounds; young Lord Turnbill, whose slight and graceful shoulders carried debts that would have done honor to a sovereign state; Donald Bright of mysterious wealth and equally mysterious parentage—all young, each aflame for his appointed time with the Divine Fire, but all hopelessly ineligible.

So well had she been drilled as to the sine qua non of lineage face to face with matrimony that she accepted the recurring verdict of ineligibility without a protest beyond a sigh thrice repeated, each time from older, wiser and deeper depths. And so had come her second season, her third, her fourth. For each year that her own age increased, that of the aspirants to her hand advanced by decades. Chances came and chances went, but not the chance. She was like some stock held against a rise by optimistic brokers.

It was in her fifth season that the arbiters of her fate raised the shears of destiny and clicked them. He who fell to her lot was a man of humble origin who had reached the ripe age of fifty-eight without ever having had time to marry. His life, with a difference, had been just as narrow, hidebound and conventional as had hers. The difference was that he had traveled the stereotyped Dick Whittington trail to high finance rather than the social highway. He had started out in Africa with a pack of cheap jewelry, an open mind and an easy conscience and had emerged after twenty-five years as one of the few Gentiles in the combine that controls the world's diamond output. His wealth was so great that an ultimate peerage was almost a matter of course. But, as usual, an aristocratic marriage had to come first.

The contract was as cold-blooded as any ever perpetrated by a royal house. Allowances, carefully graded, were stipulated to be paid at fixed times to Andrea's parents and to each of her five brothers. She herself, for a change, was not forgotten. She came in for a large and inalienable marriage settlement and was further secured in such details as to where the town residence was to be located as well as to the number and nature of the country places which were to be maintained.

When the document was finally completed it was casually submitted to Andrea for approval. Nobody dreamed that she would doubt for a moment that those in family authority were most able to decide what was best for her and nobody was right. She made no attempt to backwater against the great flood of tacit understanding which carries the well-born of Britain on its silent tide; she merely skimmed through the typewritten pages of the pre-nuptial agreement, satisfied herself that a vast sum of money was destined to the upkeep of Pellor, and dreamy-eyed with sudden memories, nodded her adorable head in consent.

All doubtless would have taken its appointed course had not the

The music was in full swing, and nearly everyone was dancing

European War put in its mightily disconcerting finger. Surprising things happened in South Africa. Andrea's affianced sailed on twenty-four hours' notice. The diamond mines closed down, took a short nap, and then suddenly awakened to the fact that America alone was demanding as much of their product as had the whole world before it turned its entire attention to making munitions and paying for them. More than that, certain ladies in Old England who even in the memory of the newborn, dropped sea shells for brass and very soon acquired simultaneously bank rolls and a taste for "the real thing in shiners."

To be brief, the diamond market entered a semi-miraculous stage that required close watching of its measured sources and Andrea's betrothed found himself harnessed to his job, possibly for the duration of the war. As a result it was decided in family conclave that it was incumbent upon Andrea to take advantage of a providential detail of two of her brothers on the Nyassaland Expeditionary Force and accompany them, surrendering St. George's chapel for a quiet marriage in the colonies.

It was a blow, but the fact that the entire set of tapered allowances would not start until the sacrificial ceremony had taken place more than offset the loss in pomp. Andrea started for Africa escorted not only by the aforementioned brothers but by old Aunty Gwen, hale and hearty at seventy in spite, or perhaps by reason, of having been frightened out of many years' growth. So here they were, Aunty and she, on the point of parting with the two boys at the last possible port up the coast and whose inhabitants had seized upon the occasion to give a grand ball in the mode of the English who have ever danced, courted and loved best when on the eve of battle.

Andrea drew a long and quivering sigh. Tomorrow the boys would be gone. Tomorrow Aunty Gwen and she would depart in state in the private car her affianced, too busy to the last for the soft preliminaries of love, had sent down from the High Veldt. Tomorrow—tomorrow would indeed mark the beginning of the end. "The end of what?" cried something within her—that something that had so often spurred her to momentary escape. It would mark the end of nothing. Beyond the event she saw herself on the same old treadmill, walking out the endless miles of doing the right thing in the right way, keeping up the same old show of lineage—lineage and money—leading a little world, never facing the great one.

She felt a great despondency, a terror of the morrow that would bring the end of nothing but that nevertheless would mark the death of part of Andrea Pellor. Then a more startling emotion seized her. The sources of this night's impulse became revealed; she knew now why she ached for freedom and why it had been given her to see her youth so near and yet so completely detached. It was because she had come to the great fork in the fair road of life, because just here she must turn her back on maid's dreams of romance. She realized, almost with the sharpness of a recoil, that she was on the verge of becoming forever a woman without a history. She looked back and saw that she had never done one outre thing; she looked forward and saw that she probably never would; she looked down and—

At her very feet was the coping that edged the almost precipitous cliff. A little to one side, it was broken and from the breach a red clay path descended in long vertiginous switch-back slants, the last of which shot down to the level of the wide sands of the beach, shining white in the reflected light of the full moon. Upon the pale stretch of sand was a faraway blur, a dark, wide-winged blot. She concentrated her unbelieving gaze upon it until she made it out beyond a doubt. It was an aeroplane. Two midget figures moved around it busily.

Andrea watched the midgets dreamily and thought of all the stories she had read about flying machine elopements. They had invariably bored her for they had always seemed to reduce Romance from filmy tissues to a mechanical basis, very noisy and smelling of grease, gasoline and overalls. But as she stood there, her diaphanous second-best party dress and her loosened hair stirred by the spice-laden breezes of an Indian Ocean dawn and her eyes full of the still, fairy light of a tropic moon, the thing drying its vast wings on the distant sands seemed like a giant moth, strayed from some Arabian Night and sent in answer to the cry of childhood's valiant fancy.

Who were those midget dots? Were they men or genii? Whence had they come and whither would they go? Did they talk with tongues or like Brownies, with their toes and eyes? Andrea wondered all these things, suddenly stopped wondering, skipped up the ladder-like stair from the garden to her room, snatched up a warm cloak affair which buttoned in a high collar at her neck and that fell sheer in ever widening folds from her shoulders to her ankles and in less time than it would take to say Jack Robinson a hundred and fifty times she was slipping and sliding down the path of many slants.

She came upon the aeroplane so suddenly that she forgot to be disappointed at its crass materialism. It was very real indeed; so were the men who attended it. One was the tallest, blackest, nakedest native she had yet seen, a mighty statue in unburnished bronze, pagnly clothed only at the loins with a spotted skin. The other was a white man burnt brown in the sun. He was neither very young nor old, he carried himself erect with the bearing of a man who is full-grown and knows it and when he moved he gave an exhibition of long thin muscles under a perfect control. He wore goggles so that she could not see his eyes, but his mouth seemed to be possessed of a smile that never wavered in spite of the fact that he held a piece of wire between his teeth and was otherwise intent on a number of things.

It was the black man who first sensed Andrea's presence and gave a warning to his master in a low, guttural, rolling string of flowing vowels. The white man did not look round; he merely shrugged his shoulders and went on with his job. Andrea watched him in silence until she was convinced that everything that could be done to the machine was about to be accomplished and its proprietor on the verge of flying away and then, emboldened [illegible] wavering smile, she said [illegible] voice as children use when teasing for cake, "Please, Mr. Man, take me with you."

Gave a Warning

She knew a good deal about flying machines, she knew that they couldn't stay up very long and that if they were worth anything at all they invariably came back to where they started from like well-trained homing pigeons. She had left her door locked and she figured that she would be back long before Aunty Gwen could work herself up to the point of having it broken in. This machine looked like a fairly good one, rather the worse for wear but wasn't that the best possible proof that it had steady and settled habits? When her voice rang across the silence of the false dawn, clear and light as a silver bell giving tongue across snow, the white man started and dropped the wrench he was manipulating. He caught it in mid-air; then let it fall to the ground deliberately and turned to look her over.

She was certainly something to see and to wonder at. Her brown hair was a bit mussed like a sea teased into catspaws by puffs of air. Her eyes of Irish blue danced with a light younger than her face—a light that appeals the eternal wistful child within us—but beneath their shining gaze were shadows and her cheeks were over pale. Just to one side of her rounded chin was a bit of black court plaster, shameful mask of a tiny sign of too much chocolates and too little exercise. She was slim enough to look tall in spite of that cloak-like affair of dark blue glove-cloth that fell from her shoulders to her ankles.

THE POPPY PERIL

A ROMANCE OF HOLLYWOOD.

By Lauchlin James

"WE'VE got a Chinaman here who was brought in on the night Rowan was murdered," was his message. "He'd been hit by an automobile and he's just come back to consciousness. He had a gun on him when they brought him in. It just occurred to me that you might want to question him."

It was a battered looking Chinaman who blinked from under his bandages as the chief of police drew up a chair beside his bed in the surgical ward of the hospital. The oblique eyes shifted wonderingly from the chief's brass buttons to the more sombre clothing of the three men who accompanied him. These were the District Attorney, a half caste Chinese interpreter and a stenographer from police headquarters.

The victim of the accident had never seen any of them before and he was not specially interested in them. His head hurt him almost beyond endurance and he was in no mood for receiving company. Moreover, the faces of this quartet which the doctor had brought to see him were not over kindly. He wished all of them would go away.

But it appeared that these men had business with him. "Ask him his name," ordered the chief. The interpreter put the question.

When the patient answered, "Tin Moy," the District Attorney gave an exclamation of disapointment. "This isn't one of Lo Gow's men," he growled to the chief of police. "This is Rowan's boy."

"Ask him if he worked for Mr. Rowan," said the chief. A rapid sing-song colloquy ensued between the interpreter and the patient.

"He say 'yes,'" the interpreter announced. "And he says you needn't have come after him; he will go back as soon as he can. He is very sorry if his absence is causing Mr. Rowan any trouble."

"Huh!" exclaimed the chief. "Oh—yes—he was hit that same night. I'd forgotten that. Well, let's see—ask him what time he left the house."

Tin Moy judged it to have been about a quarter past ten.

"Checks with what the little Brook girl says," murmured the district attorney. He turned to the doctor. "Can you tell us just what time the accident took place?" The doctor went into the hall and telephoned the hospital office.

"He was brought in here at 11 o'clock," he stated, upon his return. "The automobile is thought to have hit him about fifteen or twenty minutes earlier."

"It's a perfect alibi," conceded the chief in an undertone. "Provided the Brook kid is telling the truth." To the interpreter he said: "Ask him what he was doing with that gun on him."

More dialogue carried on in squeaks and grunts, at the end of which the interpreter said: "He says the gun was Mr. Rowan's. He says Mr. Rowan saved his life from an enemy of his in Honolulu. Yesterday he says they saw this enemy of his looking at the front of the house—I think he means the morning of the day he was hurt—and Mr. Rowan gave him the revolver to protect himself with."

"Seems to check, all around," commented Chase. "How about it, doctor, is he in shape to be told of the tragedy?"

"I think so. Nothing affects a Chinaman much."

"All right," said the chief. "Ask him if he knew Mr. Rowan has been killed."

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

STORY OF HIS BUFFALO ROBE

SO you like that buffalo robe, do you children? So do I. I wouldn't have anything happen to it for the world.

Where did I get it? I'll tell you. I've had that since I was a young man.

You know fifty years ago, there were thousands of buffaloes out West. They ran in such big herds that some times a train would have to stop for hours while a great herd of bellowing buffaloes would cross the tracks.

© by International Feature Service, Inc. 5-17

Just think of that! And now there are only about five thousand buffaloes living in the United States. They are mostly in Government preserves and on private ranches.

But the government and some few men are trying to keep the buffalo well and happy hoping that they may once more start raising large families.

I once ran into a herd of buffaloes, or at least they ran into me!

I was out riding on the plains one day on my pony. I noticed he was getting nervous, and I soon found the reason why.

I looked back of me and there came a great billowy mass of moving black—a herd of buffaloes!

Bunny was running beside me. I stopped on my pony and quickly put him in my pocket.

On and on came the buffaloes. My horse became so frightened that he didn't know what he was doing. He almost went mad with fear. Several times he nearly threw me off. I couldn't quiet him.

While we were tearing by a clump of low, bushy trees, my pony gave a leap! Off I flew, but grabbed the limb of a tree. And there I hung—Bunny in my pocket.

Before I knew it, the herd of buffaloes came charging by me.

My arms were growing weaker and weaker. I couldn't hold on another minute!

I dropped! And where do you think I landed? Right in the middle of a big buffalo's back. He was as frightened as I was, but I hung on tightly to him. There was nothing else to do.

Bunny, as usual, came to the rescue. He put his head out of my pocket and said something to the great animal. The buffalo stopped galloping and settled down to a regular trot. The herd swept by us and vanished in the distance.

I asked him to invite our buffalo friend to visit our ranch. He agreed and carried us home. When we got there I patted him and gave him a fine supper. He liked our ranch so well that he lived there with us for years until he died.

And when he did die I had his hide cured and—here it is, right under our feet.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Strive still to be a man before your mother."

This line is from Cowper's poem, "Motto of No. III. Connoisseur." No man should allow his mother to see that he is cowardly.

"The narrow isthmus 'twixt two boundless seas;
The past, the future—two eternities."

Is Thomas Moore's definition of the present, in "Lalla Rookh."

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

Christ's advice to the partisans who sought to inveigle him into a controversy is found in Matthew xxii.

FIGHTERS IN LUCK TODAY

Mars and Uranus dominate today's planetary horizon. This is essentially a lucky day for men, since all its influences favor the fighter and the aggressive one in movements that are uplifting.

Those whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a good year ahead if they avoid too much pleasure and too many friends. Business affairs will require closest attention.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produce skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures", over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. J. W. Borroughs of Little Rock, Ark., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. Enas S. Costa of Watsonville, Cal., whose family uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs only about a cent a dose!

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Steels and Motors Are Most Strong in Irregular New York Stock Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

The veil is going to be torn aside and the [illegible]—workings of Wall Street exposed to public view by W. C. Durant.

So, at least, Mr. Durant tells me in a letter just received in which he seeks to explain his tremendous "asset" of $[illegible] labelled "participating contracts." Mr. Durant makes the admission that he was both buyer and seller in the drawing up of this piece of paper which so suddenly became "worth" such an enormous amount of money.

Mr. Durant apparently can't see anything amusing or contradictory about his two statements printed here, the one that "it was my privilege to act for both companies," and the other describing the two companies as "independent" corporations. "Independent" of whom? One is Durant's right hand, the other his left hand. Both companies [illegible] are dependent on the [illegible] controlling brain.

* * *

This column having noted that Mr. Durant and his friends got their Durant Motors stock for $10 and that the [illegible] outsiders who were given the "privilege" of subscribing under the Durant plan had to pay 80 per cent. more, Durant comes back in the following letter by [illegible] that he will show up Wall Street's own "take off" practices.

* * *

Mr. Durant writes:

In your issue of May [illegible] after headlining to attract attention, you preface your questions and replies as follows: "A common complaint against Wall Street is that insiders always get in on the 'ground floor' and outsiders have to pay more for whatever securities they buy. Apparently W. C. Durant followed [illegible] a plan in the flotation of Durant Motors."

I dislike to disagree with a recognized authority of your excellent standing, but you are again mistaken. The difference is this: Wall Street usually takes a block of bonus stock, for which it pays nothing, and sells to the public at a very high price, pocketing the proceeds. In the flotation of Durant Motors after giving the widest possible publicity to the terms and price of the public offering, every dollar received under succeeding offerings less the expenses for selling went into the treasury of the company.

I am preparing a rather extended and interesting list of Wall Street flotations with bonuses paid to Wall Street insiders which will give the public a splendid idea of Wall Street promotions.—Very truly yours, W. C. Durant.

QUOTATIONS DROP IN COTTON FUTURES

New York, May 18.—Cotton futures were heavy today with prices declining from 21 to 33 points. Market was [illegible] by New Orleans [illegible] and [illegible] speculators. [illegible] off 21, July [illegible] off 24 and December [illegible].

Boston Notes

CHICOPEE will receive proposals until [illegible] for [illegible] a temporary [illegible] 000, maturing [illegible].

STAMFORD, Ct., will receive bids until 11 a. m. [illegible] for purchase of [illegible] school bonds [illegible] and payable [illegible] to 1938 inclusive.

WITH exception of [illegible] Manufacturing [illegible] Cotton Mills [illegible] mills are [illegible].

INTERNATIONAL [illegible] has nearly completed [illegible] program at its [illegible] states [illegible].

INTERNATIONAL Paper has been in good [illegible] doubtless [illegible] except for [illegible] tone of the news.

GRANBY'S coal property in 1922 produced [illegible]. This provided for [illegible] and left a large [illegible] sold.

CALUMET & Hecla's record high was made in 1907 at $1,000 a share. Stock has always [illegible] in weak markets more than was warranted by intrinsic values.

UNLESS production is increased, it seems unlikely that United Verde Extension can maintain $1 a share paid in last quarter, but hopes are entertained because of recent rich strike.

AMERICAN Smelting earnings are reported at annual rate of $14 a share on common. Dividend action is looked for in June or July.

UTAH'S net current assets at the close of 1922 amounted to $14,027,[illegible] of which $9,128,151 represent cash and government bonds. "Net quick" is today equivalent to approximately $8 per share.

INTERNATIONAL Paper's new newsprint mill at Three Rivers, Canada, which began operating a short time ago, is one of the lowest cost producers in North America and an additional source of profit. Capacity is 300 tons of newsprint daily.

IMPROVEMENT DISPLAYED IN OIL GROUP

Steels and motors were most strong in a rather irregular New York stock market today with prices for the greater part little changed, yet displaying a good tone. Improvement was noticeable in the oils.

Underwood Typewriter jumped 4 points to 163 for a new year's high. American [illegible] Oil dropped over a point to a new 1923 low. American Agricultural yielded a fraction for a new year's bottom.

[illegible] Fruit was active and weak off more than 2 points.

Traditional "selling on the good news" followed announcement of two extra dividends of 50 cents each on Fleischmann Yeast which dropped a point.

Foreign exchanges opened easier. Demand sterling was quoted at $4.61⅝. French francs dropped [illegible] point to 6.61 cents and German marks dropped to within a half a point of the extreme low for all time, selling at .0020¼ cents.

In the Boston stock market prices were little changed for the most part. There were losses of a point or more in Calumet & Arizona and Ahmeek. Ahmeek lost [illegible] at 70. Calumet & Hecla [illegible] but recovered fully. Boston & Albany added a point at 145.

Boston Is Shipping Australian Wool to England

For the first time in history Australian and South American wools are being shipped overseas from Boston, the world's greatest wool city, in considerable quantity.

These wools have been lying in Boston "in bond," that is, without the tariff paid, awaiting higher prices that have failed to come. When withdrawn from bond and transhipped to England they escape payment of duties.

Wool prices have held up while other commodities have been marked down, but the wool trade just now is stagnant, a condition that is probably merely seasonal.

CONNOR CO. HAS APPRECIATION OF 740 P. C.

An appreciation of 740 per cent. in principal in the space of eight years, with dividends now at the rate of 140 per cent. on the original purchase price, is the record of a local industrial, namely, John T. Connor Company, which operates a chain of grocery stores throughout New England.

Public offering of the common stock was made by Richardson, Hill & Co. at $12.50 per share in April, 1920. Shortly afterward shareholders were given the right to subscribe to new stock at the ratio of one share for each five held at $15 per share. Later there was declared a 40 per cent. stock dividend.

Initial dividends on the stock were at the annual rate of $1, later this was increased to $2, which rate is still in force.

The company recently issued financial statement for the final quarter of the year, during which period a new record was established for turnovers, gross sales of $3,290,000 topping by $120,000 those for the quarter ended December 31, 1922. Net profits for this period amounted to $130,000, equivalent, after all charges, to 84 cents a share on the common shares. For the year ended March 31, 1923, net earnings approximated $400,000 for the common, or about $2.67 a share, compared with $1.67 a share last year on a smaller capitalization.

The company now has in operation throughout New England 388 stores, with enough leases signed to assure 400 by Summer. Volume of business is holding up well in all sections and the outlook continues excellent.

Marketwise this issue has been practically devoid of all erratic fluctuating movements that characterize similar records of such stocks as General Motors, Bethlehem Steel and Nash Motors, and the common issue has been considered more in the light of a semi-investment security than one of speculative character.

Party-Name Law Should Be Referred to People

Dangerously Far-Reaching in Its Curtailment of Individual Liberties of Our Citizens.

A subtle and highly sinister attack has lately been made upon free speech, free press and the right to make independent expression of political thought, which should rouse the indignant protest of every liberal minded man and woman in this Commonwealth.

The "Party-Name Law," so-called, passed by the Legislature at the instigation of reactionary political interests with the undoubted purpose of annihilating the Liberal Republican League because of its activities in the last campaign, is so dangerously far-reaching in its curtailment of the individual liberty of our citizens that it should not be permitted to stand upon our statute books without being voted upon by the people in the general election, as provided for under the present constitution.

The issue raised by this law is not confined to the question of whether or not any particular organization, such as the Liberal Republican League, ought to be ejected from the political arena, but is rather whether or not the people of this Commonwealth shall continue to enjoy their constitutional right to freely express their independent political convictions without being subject, in the exercise of this right, to the censorship of a specific party organization.

In other words, are the people of Massachusetts now ready and willing to set up a political censorship in this community? Should all independent activity on the part of members of a political party, with which the State Committee (for the time being) of that party is not in sympathy, be prohibited? Is it desirable that the citizenry of Massachusetts should be so gagged and shackled?

The "Party-Name Law" not only encroaches upon the immemorial rights of our people, but it is grossly discriminatory in its application. The reactionary interests that put it through the Legislature took good care to except from its operation all of their own political clubs that were incorporated prior to January 1, 1923, but refused to except voluntary associations that were similarly organized before such date. This law is objectionable, not only on the ground that it is bad in principle, but that it is special legislation of a highly retroactive character. It violates those fundamental principles of constitutional liberty upon which this Republic was founded.

No man or group of men have the constitutional right to exercise a monopoly of political thought or expression in this State, nor does the right exist in the Legislature to clothe the State Committee of any party with the authority to limit or prescribe the method in which the citizen may exercise his political affiliations, as is contemplated by this law.

The words "Republican" and "Democrat" have been variously used throughout the political history of our country, as representative of those who have sought to uphold differing ideals of government, rather than as mere party labels. No political evil has been shown to exist, nor has any abuse of the word "Republican" or "Democrat" been made to appear, which would justify legislative interference with the usages of expression under which our Republic, and this Commonwealth in particular, were founded and have been developed.

The referendum provided for by our Constitution is the apt and necessary remedy for this attempt to censor the political thought of our time in this State, and an appeal to place this law upon referendum vote at the next general election is now in circulation. It is the opinion of some of our most representative men and women, irrespective of party affiliations, that this attack upon free speech and free press should not be permitted to stand as the law of the Commonwealth without a verdict by the people.

The referendum petition upon this question has already been endorsed and signed by every living ex-Governor of the State, with the exception of ex-Governor Douglas and Vice-President Coolidge, both of whom are now out of the State. It has the like approval of former Attorneys-General Pillsbury, Atwill, Boynton and Allen, and has the approval of a very comprehensive leadership in all sections of the State, among whom are Hon. Joseph Walker, former Speaker of the House of Representatives; Miss Mary E. Wooley, President of Mt. Holyoke College; Rev. E. Talmadge Root, D. D., Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches; Sherman L. Whipple, Esq.; Edward H. Chandler, Secretary of the Twentieth Century Club; Hon. Alonzo B. Cook, State Auditor; Lombard Williams, Esq.; Hon. William A. Gaston; Edward A. Filene; Harold D. Wilson; George W. Coleman; Mayor James M. Curley; Professor John A. Nichols; Russell A. Wood; Hon. William N. Osgood; Hon. Edward P. Barry; Hon. Harvey N. Shepard; Robert M. Washburn, Esq.; Grenville S. MacFarland and a host of other equally representative citizens.

The work of gathering the necessary signatures is being rapidly pushed in every County and should receive the hearty co-operation of every citizen. As the required 15,000 certified signatures must be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than June 5, it is the duty of every man and woman in this State, who believes in the perpetuity of representative government, to render instant co-operation in the procurement and certification of this petition.

Copies may be obtained by application to the office of the Boston American, or the headquarters of the Liberal Republican League, Room 1003, 53 State street, Boston.

Upon one point the friends of this referendum should exercise eternal vigilance. Boards of registrars, whose duty it is under the statutes to certify the signatures upon referendum petitions, should not be permitted to let this work drag.

As all completed petitions must be in the hands of the secretary of the Commonwealth by the fifth of June, it is of the utmost importance that the registrars should perform the duty devolving upon them without a moment of unecessary delay.

It would be a comparatively easy thing for registrars throughout the State to hold up the certification of petitions upon one excuse or another until after the day of filing.

An instance of this sort has already come to our attention where the registrars of a city had one of these referendum petitions in its hands for over thirty days before they returned it to its sponsors.

The machine politicians, who are always able to exercise a considerable amount of influence with the registration boards, and who are obviously afraid to have this "Party Name Law" submitted to the people, will do everything in their power to obstruct the procurement and filing of the necessary 15,000 signatures within the time allowed by law.

It therefore behooves the friends of the referendum generally and especially those who favor the submission of THIS particular law to popular vote, to be untiring in their efforts to secure prompt and effective action upon these petitions by the registration officials of the State.

They will bear watching upon this question in the interest of fair play and a square deal.

BOY OF TWO YEARS IS WONDER

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—University of Pennsylvania psychologists have discovered two children whom they term "superior."

One is a two-year-old boy, Jack Schwabenland, who passed psychological tests which are considered difficult for children twice his age; the other, Hilda Leaf, now in a New York hospital convalescing after an operation by Dr. Adolph Lorenz, is ten years old.

When four years old, Hilda was stricken with infantile paralysis and was bedridden. At five she taught herself to read, and since then has eagerly read every book she could obtain.

The Straphanger's Answer

Editor Boston American:

Answering "The Conductor's Side," how can conductors expect a smile or a decent word for the present service? The conductor must remember that the people who are unfortunate enough to have to ride on the street cars are entitled to a 5-cent fare and a seat to sit on. I was on a car the other day—not in a rush hour—and I counted twenty people standing. A fat chance to feel decent or be decent to the conductor.
ALBERT J. TON.

Elect Real Americans

Editor Boston American:

A greater need for the American people than the world court is the capacity to elect real Americans to fill the important offices, whose business it is to look after the welfare and honor of the American people, in whose pay they are, and whose pay they accept—men who can deal in foreign affairs, according to the standards of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, "Partial to none and friendly with all, who desire it."

As long as the champions of the world court show almost a fanatical partiality for England they never will get the American people's consent through the ballot. The American people are intelligent enough to know that a world court, or any other court, where impartiality does not rule supreme would be a huge farce and below American dignity. The American people are getting tired of their near statesmen playing the Simple Simon in world affairs.

Those In Urgent Need

The editor would like to publish practically every one of the hundreds of letters he receives daily, but that is obviously impossible. For this reason, the column has been restricted mainly to those in urgent need of necessities. Letters such as those offering to exchange articles or requesting other than necessities must be excluded in order to allow room for the urgently needy. Letters offering a home and pay for a girl or woman who will assist in the housework will be held unpublished until some woman in distress asks for such a place.

Mother of Four Needs Aid

Editor Helping Hand:

Would any of the kind readers help a mother with four boys, ages fourteen, twelve, ten and eight, who need clothes and shoes badly, so much so that they cannot go to school? I have been without a husband two years and find it very hard to feed and clothe them. I am unable to work at present because of an operation. The boys' shoes are 4, 2, 1 and 10. I also need clothes, as I have to borrow some from my friends when I go out. I wear size 40.
MRS. P. M.

Thanks for Check

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to thank you for your kind help to me. I received your check some time ago, but have been too ill to write before. God bless you and the kind readers of the Helping Hand Column. You have brought cheer to many humble homes. If best wishes and prayers count for anything, you will always be happy.
W. W. W.

ED. NOTE—We are always very happy to know that those who need help have found those who are willing to help but we don't deserve the thanks. The check was made up of sums given by three people, two of them anonymously, and they and those who helped in other ways deserve the thanks.

EUROPE WAR WOUNDS MUST BE DRAINED OF HATE

By Herbert Kaufman

FIVE years after armistice Paris is paying eighteen cents a loaf for bread, which won't help Poincare's popularity.

The Ruhr wrangle's an international pickpocket. The further France proceeds with the stubborn venture the worse for all concerned.

The only blood thus far squeezed out of the Rhenish turnip is bad blood.

Europe must drain the hate from war wounds before any settlement of present difficulties is possible.

Germany's four principal chemical plants, failing to make stipulated deliveries of dyes and other products as required by the Versailles Treaty, are confiscated, whereupon an army of technical workers quit their tasks and declare a walkout.

The allies between them can't spare an equivalent operating force.

More precious time lost. Less income available for reparations. One more nail in prosperity's coffin. Revenge is the worst of financiers.

They'll Fight It Out Some Other Day

England does things better. There's a race of cool heads for you. No wonder a fifth of the earth is under their flag.

Curzon lays down the law to the Soviets, shows that he means business, and then gives them a few more days to think about it.

Much contact with many sorts of folk has taught Downing street that demagogues must make their mob gestures.

Russia can't afford to alienate the country able to furnish so much of what she requires, and apparently most inclined to come to her assistance.

The lion and the bear are sooner or later fatted to fight to a finish.

Contending ambitions in the Caucasus and India foredestine a mutual death struggle, but their present row is just a growling match.

The End of Another German Dream

Several aspirations are challenged by the Anglo-Persian Oil Company's purchase of the Berlin-to-Bagdad railway.

If bitterness is driving ex-Kaiser Wilhelm mad, nothing is more apt to complete the job.

This was the sword he thought to thrust into Britain's colonial heart. This was to be the first stretch of the road to oriental conquest.

Moscow and Paris both gnash their teeth at the coup and the League of Nations utters a groan at the prospect of conflicting claims over another Angora concession title.

Squabbles, squabbles everywhere—and a full share of them at home.

Efficiency Takes Its Pound of Flesh

Joseph Brankus, within less than a year starts out from Whiting, Indiana, walks clear to Jerusalem, then back to Cherbourg.

After deducting fares of necessary boat journeys, he puts $10,000 in his pocket for the performance, which will just about purchase an airplane competent to make the trip in a week.

If he ever flies over the same ground, Brankus won't have nearly the same fun and wonderful experiences he encountered afoot.

Speed will rob tomorrow of delights that more deliberate ages found well worth the difference in schedules.

Bird routes are monotonous, unpicturesque thoroughfares.

We can't have everything. Efficiency collects its pound of flesh from leisure.

The future will be a far better manager, but won't meet pleasures comparable to those of stage and horseback riding periods.

Business and Government Go to Dinner

The Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States convenes at Washington and invites, among banquet speakers, the director of the Federal budget, the Secretary of Agriculture, the head of the Red Cross, the ex-chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and the president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, which indicates what intelligent business is thinking about.

These men want to know what's best for their industry, their workers and America.

They pay one-tenth of our revenue taxes and are correspondingly concerned in the disposal of all those millions.

They purchase the crops of thousands of farmers and wish to hear from the producer of tobacco and agriculture's overlord how they may best serve Federal and mutual interests.

They learn at first hand of the spirit behind trade regulation. Are advised that neither unlimited competition nor restricted monopoly is a healthy thing for the country. Humanity, patriotism, justice and fair-play make their separate appeals.

Now these employers of multitudes and stewards of prosperity will go home with higher ideals and clearer conceptions of administration and civic duty.

Such conferences are of national benefit. Whenever government and commerce meet and talk it over clouds of misunderstand are dissipated, and the whole community is better for it.

Reaping Their Whirlwinds

John D. Cornwell, ex-Governor of West Virginia, addressing the National Manufacturers' Association, fears the consequences of any Federal Coal Commission report unfavorable to miners, who are liable to insist upon nationalization of the coal fields and may enforce their purpose with a general strike.

He does not think that Federal management would mean an uninterrupted production of fuel, nor does he believe that the unions would behave better under official bosses than they now act.

Consumers, recovering from months of enforced snuffles and still unassured of adequate supplies or just prices for next Winter, are not alarmed at the prophecy. As between employer and laborer, general sympathy is decidedly behind the man with the pick.

Whatever whirlwinds the operators reap will be of their own sowing. Sellers of culm and painted rock, abettors of epidemic and roughriders over common rights, can't complain of the beds they make.
